My mother found this yesterday as she was going through Grandma's things. (the last goodbye??)
I remembered the many wonderful stories I seen so many times before and thought I would share this one. Enjoy!

Someday of the year

Dear friends:
As I have time because I aint so busy thought I would write you a few lines - eight or ten pages & let you know the ups to date news, six months old. We are well as could be expected for the shape we're in. We aint sick. We just dont feel too good. I suppose you will want to know about us moving from Pennsylvania to Hollifornia. We never started until we left, so it didnt take us any longer than from the time we left until the time we got here. The trip was the best part of all. If you ever come out here dont miss it. They didn't expect to see us until we got here, & most of the people we were acquainted with we already knew & the ones we didn't know looked like strangers.

We are at the same house we moved in last, which is beside our neighbor across the street from the other side. Henry says he thinks we will stay here until we leave. We are very busy farming. We have 3 cows, but we are going to sell one, because we cant milk him. Eggs are a good price now, that's why they are so high. I sure hope we get, a lot of them. We have 25 roosters & one old hen. Some of the ground is so poor you cant raise an umbrella on it, but we do have a good crop of potatoes, some the size of hickory nuts, some the size of peas and a whole mess of little ones. We also have a crop of corn. I think it will make 5 gallons to the acre. Some worms got in it last year, but we fished them out ~ drank it anyways. Our romance started with a gallon & ended up with a crib full. Myrtle was taking the cows to water & when they were crossing the bridge, one fell through & strained her milk, now she gets the hiccups once a month & churns her own butter. The dog died last week. Henry said he swallard a tape measure & died by the inch. June said he crawled up by the head & died by the foot -- Myrtle said he went up the back alley & died by the yard.

My mother-in-law is sick & is at death door. We sure hope the Dr. can pull her thru. June fell off the back porch & skinned her somewhat & bruised her elsewhere. Alice also has the mumps & is having a swell time. The baby swallowed a roll of film but nothing has developed yet. Every time Henry gets sick he starts to feeling bad. The Dr. says if he didnt get any worse he would stay about the same. Every time grandpa gets a toothache his foot starts to ache & it doesn't quit until it stops. I would have sent you the money I owe you, but I didn't think about it until I sealed the envelope. I sent your overcoat to you, but I cut off the buttons to make it lighter. They're in the left pocket. We are out of jelly so I sent Henry to N. York to get some of the traffic Jam. I've put your address inside the envelope so it wont get lost or be rubbed off. I must close now. If you dont get this letter in the mail, let me know & I will mail it. If you read this make a copy of it & then read yours. It took me 3 days to write this because you are a slow reader, write soon if its nothing else than a check. Sincirily,

Some one you know, but dont

PS , (pea soup) I would like to describe our new house, where everything is real modern. We have a kitchen - living room - 2 bed rooms - there is a little room upstairs with a trough in it like one we used to water the horses in, but a little more fancy. Then there is a little thing in the room about 3 feet high that you wash your face in but it isnt very good because it has a hole in the bottom. Theres another thing in the corner that is the handiest thing in the house. You can put one foot in & wash it & press a button & you have clean water for the other one. It has 2 lids. Ma took the solid one & used it to roll bread on & she framed grandpa's picture with the other one. It's a real good picture of him. Everybody says it looks like he's just sitting there.

NOW THAT APRIL'S HERE . . .

Don't know how your weather's been, but March was almost pure Spring - although it ended up with some cold, rainy days - with flowers and trees budding out as though it were really May.

March brought the Illinois DAR State Conference to Springfield, with yours truly serving as State Chairman of Credentials and Registration. I can't say I'm sorry I won't be dealing with almost 500 name tags, etc. next March, as this was the end of my 2-year term.

It was exciting to receive a beautiful white orchid from daughter Dana and her husband, Roger White, which I wore the last evening to the State Banquet - just as though I was wheel, and not just one of the cogs. Orchids don't come my way often, so I was truly thrilled.

February found North and me visiting his cousins in Tucson. While we were there, we attended the Rodeo, and now I can truly say that I'm in a movie with one of my favorites - Tom Selleck!! When that rodeo movie comes around, just look for me in the crowd scene - seated on the right side of the stadium - I'm the one with the straw hat with the blue flowered band! I'm sure I'll be easy to find. Not.

This month we headed south to Branson, Missouri for a week of pure country - which turned out to be music of about any kind you like. We enjoyed the Presley and the Country Tonight shows, as well as those of Shoji Tobuchi (Broadway to Bluegrass and very, very posh), John Davidson, Glen Campbell and Mickey Gilley. Today we set out rhubarb roots; tomorrow we go to the accountant to do our taxes. From the sublime to the ridiculous??

BRITISH RESEARCH
Part II

If you have located an ancestor in Britain at a specific date, you need to know in which record he should be sought.

If emigration took place after 1837 from England or Wales, and a known birth, marriage or death in the family can be located in the Civil Registration at St. Catherine's House, 10 Kingsway, London WC2B 6JP, or at a local Register Office (look on phone books under Registration of BMD), then your search will be easier.

If emigration book place before 1837, the emigrant's baptism may be found in the International Genealogical Index, compiled by the Genealogical Society of Utah. The index contains records of baptisms and some marriages (no burials) from 1538 to 1875. It is available at LDS Branch Libraries. It is not comprehensive, but has sufficient coverage of English parishes to give clues to areas of origin.

If the emigrant was married in England, his marriage might be located in "Boyd's Marriage Index" at the Society of Genealogists, 14 Charterhouse Buildings, Goswell Road, London EC1M 7BA, a private association of subscribers with a unique library that is open to the public.

At this same address is the Guild of One-Name Studies, which has over a thousand members researching particular surnames in depth. They record every occurrence of the name in an area, many nationally and internationally. A list of surnames registered can be obtained by writing the Guild, at Box G, address above.

For those with Welsh ancestry, a group of societies of regional basis has established The Association of Family History Societies of Wales, 18 Marine Terrace, Abestwyth, Dyfed SY23 2AZ.

Certificates of registered births, marriages and deaths since 1837 are available from the General Register Office, St. Catherine's House. Postal applications should be made to the General Register Office, Smedley Hydro, Southport, Merseyside PR8 2HH. Prices differ, so write for current costs.

Birth certificates there give date and place where the event took place, child's name(s), and usually the name and occupation of the father, name and maiden name of the mother, with usual residence if birth took place elsewhere; also includes name of person making the registration report.

Marriage certificates contain names, usually ages of contracting parties, addresses and occupations, names and occupations of their fathers, date and place of marriage, names of witnesses.

A death certificate records name(s), date, place, age, cause of death, occupation of the deceased, residence if different than place of death, and name and address of person making the report. Prior to 1968 it does not show the place of birth, or parentage.

Birth, marriage and death entries are in separate indexes. Details on a birth certificate should be sufficient so you can find the marriage certificate

MORE HERALDRY INFORMATION

It is estimated that about 85% of all Americans can trace their heritage back to England, Scotland, Ireland or Wales. There are many coats-of-arms circulating that are the result of artistic interpretation, and you may have ordered one from the several firms that specialize in family coats of arms.

In the beginning of the use of heraldry a great deal of concentration went into each family's coat-of-arms. After all, "knights in shining armor" (the armor probably wasn't really that bright) spent most of their time fighting with each other, and it was important that they be able to tell the good guys from the bad guys, using what we today might call "logos" on shields, banners, pennants and helmets.

You might say they used their family designs to find their comrades in arms the way today's teenagers look for the golden arches or a similar motif that is well known to them.

Knights in shining armor were the stock in trade of Sr. Thomas Malory (1408-1471) who wrote what is considered the finest collection of Arthurian romances - Le Morte D'Artur (The death of King Arthur). The importance of knighthood during his century stood out in his words on the death of Sir Lancelot: "Thou Sir Lancelot, there thou liest, that thou were never matched of earthly knight's hand. and thou were the courteoust knight that ever bare shield. And thou were the truest friend to thy lover that ever bestrad hourse. And thou were the truest lover of a sinful man that ever loved woman. And thou were the kindest man that ever struck with sword. And thou were the goodliest person that ever came among press of knights. And thou were the meekest man and the gentlest that ever ate in the hall among ladies. And thou were the sternest knight to thy mortal foe that ever put spear in the rest."

Lancelot was unique, in that his coat-of-arms was issued to him; most were the property of a family, not an individual.

Heraldry laws also restricted the bearing of an ancestor's coat-of-arms to only the first son of the first son. If more than one son arrived in the family, the design was changed to denote he was not the primary bearer.

Daughters who carried on a family line (in the absence of a son) was allowed to combine her family's COA with that of her husband.

These variations - which could take place over a number of generations - make it very difficult at times, to trace the COA you're interested in.

The term coat-of-arms originates with the practice of a knight putting a cloth coat over his armor. It was on this cloth coat that his family COA was sewn.

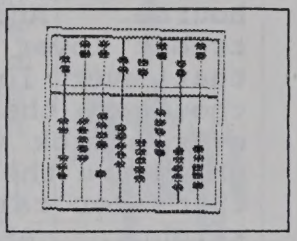
Fighting over something other than lands - the design of a family coat-of-arms got so bad that in 1419 King Henry V of England issued a decree that no new COA's would be used, unless you received one as a gift from the Crown, for services rendered.



Richard II even sent inspectors around the country to check who was wearing what COA, and confiscating those that were not completely valid and legal.

These inspectors were called heralds, and this word remained to represent the use of COA's - Heraldry.

The College of Arms, Queen Victoria Street, London, C.C.4V4BT, is where you can find today's heralds. The records of the College are not available for inspection by outsiders, but inquiries may be made by mail.

The three rules for granting a COA require the following:

(1) Documentation that you are a direct (lineal) descendant of an arms-bearing ancestor in an unbroken line of first sons. If you can prove this, you can have the COA assigned to you.

(2) Proof of descent as any of the other sons of an arms-bearing ancestor will get you an altered version of the family COA.

(3) If you are English or Welsh descent, you can BUY a new COA.

The exact term is not "coat-of-arms," but "Achievement of Arms."

There are eight recognized parts of each COA; Crest, wreath, mantle, helmet, shield, supporters, compartment and motto.

A description of the COA is correctly a BLAZON, and these are usually only one sentence long (as opposed to the description, which may be very detailed).

HELMET: The portion of armor used to protect the head, and later, the face. The shape or design also indicated the rank of the wearer.

CREST: The symbol or figure attached to the top of the helmet as further identification. Its design usually corresponded with the shield, and is always used on the COA, but never by itself.

WREATH: Another term is "torse." This is a twisted cloth or piece of silk attached at the base of the crest to conceal the joint of crest and helmet. A standard wreath has six twists, alternating color and metal of the shield.

MANTLE: Another term is "lambrequin." The mantle was a piece of fabric attached to the helmet to protect the man inside from the heat of the sun. There are two basic kinds - the whole mantle, or a much-divided one called a "seaweed." The seaweed indicated past involvement in hand-to-hand combat.

WHEN THE PRESIDENT DISAPPEARED

When the President Disappeared

Yankee Doodles

One hundred and two years ago, the economy of this nation was pretty sad. High protective tariffs had put fat gold surpluses into the Treasury which not even Republican largess to Civil War pensioners depleted. But the tariffs and Gold were no good for farmers, just then in a run of their leanest years. Westerners turned to silver, of which some of the newly admitted states had mountains of, and at bargain prices. 1890 had almost seen a change from the gold to a silver standard.

All in all, nobody felt safe about the future.

By putting on the Democratic ticket a former Asst. Postmaster General named Adlai E. Stevenson from Illinois, the party in 1892 was able to re-elect New York's Grover Cleveland to the White House - an address he'd lost four years earlier to Benjamin Harrison. Cleveland believed in "hard" money, refusing to raid the Treasury or allow "soft" money to take over.

But more than $100 million in silver notes had been issued since he last held office, redeemable in gold, and the gold reserve was down from $185 to $101 million; 642 banks closed that year, and savings banks required 30 days notice for withdrawals. In February, the solid old Reading Railroad went into receivership.

Panic gripped not only the rich, but the working people. Some actually starved. Grover Cleveland was sick at heart. He also had other problems - personal problems.

June 30 and August 7, 1893 are dates worthy of scrutiny.

On June 30, 1893, the President disappeared. On June 18, he had asked the White House physician, Dr. Robert M. O'Reilly, to take a look at a "rough place" in the roof of his cigar-chewing mouth. Dr. O'Reilly took tissue samples and sent them anonymously to the Army Medical Museum, as well as to Dr. William H. Welch of Johns HOPKINS Hospital.

Past President Ulysses S. Grant had died recently, painfully and slowly, of mouth cancer, probably from his years of cigar-chewing. So it was not a complete surprise to the President or his doctor when the pathologists' reports agreed: "Malignant."

CONFIDENTIAL

A hurried visit from his very good friend Dr. Joseph Bryant of New York - a hunting and fishing crony of the President - caused no suspicions, for Cleveland knew he dare not let the world know he was suffering from cancer.

Dr. Bryant, too, agreed with the diagnosis, urging immediate surgery. The next problem - if the secrecy was to be maintained - was to find a hospital where Cleveland's surgery could be performed without his identity being revealed.

Immediately after issuing a call to Congress for a date six weeks later, President Cleveland boarded a northbound train. If his move was discovered, the press was to be told he was slipping away to rest at Gray Gables, his summer home, where his young, pregnant wife Frances currently resided.

Arriving at dusk, the President and Dr. Bryant traveled in a common carriage to NY's Battery, where Commodore Elias C. Benedict's yacht Oneida was anchored just offshore. A small tender carried them to the yacht, just as it had, earlier, taken Dr. O'Reilly, Dr. Edward G. Janeway, the country's foremost physiologist; Dr. William W. Keen of Philadelphia, an oral surgeon of high repute; Dr. Bryant's assistant, Dr. John F. Erdmann; and Dr. Ferdinand Hasbrouch of Manhattan, a young dentist who was needed for his knowledge of the new "laughing gas," nitrous oxide, for anesthesia.

The President met them all aboard the ship, smoking one last cigar. About midnight, the NY doctors went ashore to spend the rest of the night in their nearby homes, returning early the next morning. The Oneida sailed up the East River and into a glassy Long Island Sound. The Commodore and Dan Lamont remained on deck, so to curious eyes it would seem an ordinary cruise over the July 4th weekend.

But inside the main saloon, things were not as usual. Fitted into a floating surgery, a straight-backed chair was lashed to the mast for the patient. Sheeted paraphernalia ranged about, including Dr. Hasbrouch's gas machine, a standard ether-giving rig, a manually operated generator for megneto-cautery, tables for surgical instruments, and a chair for Dr. Janeway, who would monitor the patient's vital signs throughout the surgery.

Cleveland's mouth was washed out and disinfected several times during the morning. This was important, because, deep under heavy ether, oral patients were known to choke to death on their own blood. From the lighter gas, they could more easily be aroused to cough it up. And, Cleveland was the type - overweight, hypertensive - to go into an apoplexy if he choked at all.

Under the gas, the President was removed of two bicuspids to make room for the surgical work. Dr. Keen's speciality - an ingenious cheek retractor he had recently brought back from Paris - gave Dr. Bryant's fingers enough room for Dr. Bryant's fingers to work, rather than having to cut a hole into the face.

Bryant grimly, but expertly carved with his white-hot electric knife, excising a section of the mouth's roof out to the midline, and back to an apparently unaffected portion of the palate. His great concern was to avoid hitting the orbital palate, ie., the eye socket.

Half through cutting, Hasbrouck warned that the gas was about to wear off and the patient awaken. Ether was administered so the work could continue.

A lethal sarcoma was revealed, and Dr. Bryant scraped and scooped carefully to remove as many wild fringe cells as possible. Bleeding was kept to a minimum - about 6 ounces - and by 2 that afternoon, the cavity was stuffed with gauze and the patient put back in his bed. About 3 he started coming to, and 1/6 grain of morphine was administered. Pulse, blood pressure and temperature all remained within normal ranges.

While the President slept, his doctors ate a late lunch and took a well-deserved drink. They knew what no one else in America knew - that the President of the United States had confronted a mortal enemy and in all likelihood, defeated it for himself - and the nation.

The next afternoon - July 2 - Cleveland walked around his room a bit, and through the packing in his mouth, he thanked those who had cared for him, never complaining.

Meanwhile, Dr. Hasbrouch was in a bind. He was already 48 hours for critical surgery for another patient. He needed to go ashore, but in his absence, the President's life could possibly be jeopardized by hemorrhaging, which would require more gas. Finally, all agreed the doctor could leave and he went ashore at New London.

On July 3, Cleveland was up all day, belatedly signing the ship's register with a firm hand. On July 4, the Oneida sailed to Sag Harbor, where Dr. Keen was put ashore. Late on July 5, the yacht moored at the President's summer home, and a squat, limping figure wrapped in a cloak made his way up the private dock at Gray Gables.

The world was told he had been treated for 2 ulcerated teeth, and a recurrence of his rheumatism. Friends mounted guard, keeping the nation's press at bay. They had been kicking their heels for 5 days and nights, with no word at all as to the President's location. When the yacht was spotted offshore, their frustration turned into fury and they confronted Lamont in an old gray barn on the Cleveland estate. Lamont sent the reporters away silenced, if not mollified with his story of rheumatism, etc. routine. But the next day they were on the attack once more.

VP Stevenson, they said, had heard the President's condition was so serious that he, Stevenson, was on his way to investigate (echoes of a Chief of Staff's announcement, when President Reagan was hospitalized, that he was "in charge"?). The reporters were advised that Stevenson (who had been in cahoots with the Silver advocates) was neither invited nor expected at Gray Gables.

On July 7, a NY dentist came up to make impressions, quickly fashioning a hard-rubber plug for the gaping hole in the President's jaw.

Despite his discomfort, Cleveland was back at work by July 12, working on his upcoming message to Congress. Pain did not cease, so on July 17, Dr. Bryant again advised a trip on the Oneida. The plug was removed where they found, to their dismay, that patches of evil tissue were regrowing. With a make-shift gas job, Dr. Bryant again scraped the President's mouth.

The Attorney General, Richard Olney, was invited to come up and help with the message. Totally unprepared for the President's appearance, he was visibly shocked. They went to work together on the draft speech Olney had brought, retaining about 1/6 of it, and the President himself wrote the remaining 2,800 words in his own laborious longhand.

On August 7, Congress heard the President's uncompromising message concerning the monetary system of the nation. Four days later, Cleveland crept back to Gray Gables to recuperate.

Meanwhile, on the very day he went to Washington, Cleveland's secret was almost unmasked.

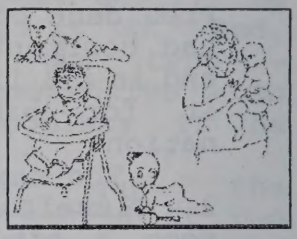
Dr. Hasbrouck, disgruntled at not being able to leave the yacht when he wanted, to save his own skin told a high-toned doctor, Leander P. Jones, just who and what had detained him. Jones tipped off a newspaper friend, E. J. Edwards, a reporter for the Philadelphia Press. Edwards, who used the single name "Holland" for his writing, interviewed Hasbrouck, receiving full details.

Thus, four days before his fight in Congress, and in time for the grave question about his health to affect the fight perhaps fatally, Cleveland's secret was indeed out.

But not quite. A conscientious Holland checked his colossal scoop, eying Drs. Bryant and Keen, Dan Lamont, and the White House itself. He was rebuffed by all of them, who cast serious aspersions on Hasbrouck's reputation.

The Press would not print the story, without proper confirmation. Four weeks later, when they finally did, the huge white lie that it exposed had succeeded, changing places with the truth.

Congress William Jennings Bryan orated for 3 hours for the Silver backers, but on August 28, the House voted 239 to 108 in Cleveland's favor. When the Holland story came out the next day, it made little impact.



Meanwhile, Cleveland's health had rebounded and on September 5, after rest, fishing and sea air, he addressed a Pan-American Medical Congress in Washington, where all agreed he'd never looked better!

On September 9, Frances was delivered of another baby girl, and the final victory of Gold over Silver occurred in the Senate on October 30th.

So ended an arch cabal in allegiance to the nation's well-being. Cleveland died of heart trouble (with nary another sign of cancer) in 1908, and in 1917 an aging Dr. Keen published the entire story. Holland was long dead too, never having regained his former prominence. But the press that had reviled him put into effect a paramount policy from which it is doubtful any

President will ever find it possible to again escape: the full and instant truth about the White House occupant's where-abouts and health

(From American Heritage, 10/57, by John Stuart Martin)

NAMES CAN BE MISLEADING - OR VERY HELPFUL

There are a number of ways names are handed out. For centuries only a first, or "given" name was used. Then, as trade and commerce became more complex, it became clear that one name just wasn't enough.

One of the first systems of handing out last, or surnames, was to add something descriptive to the given name. In this manner, John #1 who lived by the mill became John Mill or Mills, and John #2 who lived on the hill became John Hill or Hills, etc.

Especially in Scandinavian countries a patronymically method was used. The first six letters of that long word above spells out patron, from the Latin word "pater" for father. In this case, John's son Erik would become Erik Johnson, and John's daughter Kristin would become Kristin Johnsdatter.

The next generation of this family could turn into Frank Erikson (Erik's son Frank) or Inger Erikson (Erik's daughter Inger).

If you think this is confusing, think of what a telephone book in Norway might look like! In fact, until well into the past century, this is how names in Scandinavia were passed down, making it very, very difficult for genealogists. A national committee in Sweden has been encouraging the beginning of new family names, and getting away from the patronymic ones.

The most common names today in America are Brown, Johnson, Jones, Smith and Williams. Part of the reason for this is because many immigrants who had very difficult names to spell or pronounce, selected something similar but more "Americanized," or just changed them entirely; sometimes it was immigration officials who made the changes, not the immigrant himself. Some names were translated, too, such as the French "Renard" to our "Fox."

Another reason names can be a real problem when searching for ancestors is that many of our early ancestors were not literate and could not write their own names. When they had someone else write the name down, it often became the phonetic spelling, rather than the original. This resulted in Smith being Smithe, Smyth, Smythe, and even Schmidt or Schmitt or Schmid. Many families, once they became literate (in later generations) used the incorrect spelling of those old documents, and a family name had changed - just like that!

It is important that you know all of the possible ways to spell your surname when you begin researching your family lineage. Jot down any conceivable way of spelling it that you can think of, regardless of how ridiculous it sounds. Pronounce it, and then write down the possible phonetic spellings. Soft consonants can be changed to hard ones (c's to k's) or vice versa.

Nationality can also play a part in a family name. American Indian names were bestowed as the consequence of an experience of the bearer. President Teddy Roosevelt convinced a large number of Sioux Indians that they be renamed and that early names be recorded and classified.

Arabs often do not have surnames, but use nicknames that usually end with death. The Chinese placed their surname first, historically, although many of today's Chinese Americans follow our custom.

German names often derive from colors, locations or occupations, while Indonesian families use only a surname, although some first names are now beginning to be found.

Families of Spanish origin use two surnames, the first from the father's side, and the second from the mother's side.

Families with Black heritage whose forefathers were brought here as slaves, or born to slaves, face the record problem that no surnames were permitted until a slave was freed. Slave owners usually selected names for his servants, and the original African names were often lost. Following the War Between the States, newly freed Blacks often chose names of prestigious families, which is a reason for so many Black families having English-sounding surnames.

English: Athelstan, Augustus, Beauchamp, Beau fort, Beaufort, Berengar, Boleyn, Bolingbroke, Branndon, Canute, Cavendish, Clifford, DeBohun, DeBoulogne, DeBurgh, DeCoucy, Egbert, Ethelbald, Ethelbert, Ethelred, Ethelwolf, Ferrers, Gray, Grey, Hardi Canute, Hepburn, Howard, Hyde, Ironside, Jones, Lyon, Marshal(l), Mortimer, Neville, Ogilvy/Ogilvie, Parr, Plantagenet, Pole, Scott, Seymour/Seymoure/Seymore, Stanley, Stein, Stewart/Stuart, Sweyn, Swynford, Tudor, Visconti, Waldegrave, William, Woodville, Worsley.

SOME OF THE RULES THAT GUIDED OUR FOREBEARS

If you've ever had the pleasure of reading through some old cookbooks, you may have been struck by the strange (now) duties that were expected of servants (Servant? What's that?) of a household.

One such book - which probably has one of the longest titles in existence - was "Ladies' Indispensable Assistant - Being a Companion for the Sister, Mother, and Wife. Containing More Information for the Price Than Any Other Work Upon the Subject. Here are the Very Best Directions for the Behavior and Etiquette of Ladies and Gentlemen, Ladies' Toilette Table, Directions for Managing Canary Birds, also, Safe Directions for the Management of Children; Instructions for Ladies under Various Circumstances; A Great Variety of Valuable Recipes, Forming a Complete System of Family Medicine, Thus Enabling Each Person To Become His or Her Own Physician; To Which is Added One of the Best Systems of Cookery Ever Published; Many of These Recipes are Entirely New and Should Be in the Possession of Every Person in the Land." Whew!

Under the section for Etiquette for Ladies and Gentlemen, it reads, "A few plain directions, fashioned not after an imaginary model, but upon the world as it is.

"The Person: Cleanliness, absolute purity of person, is the first requisite in the appearance of a gentleman or lady. Not only should the face and hands be kept clean, but the whole skin should be subjected to frequent ablutions. Better wear coarse stockings with a clean skin, than silk stockings drawn over dirty feet. Let the whole skin be kept pure and sweet, nails and hair, clean; and the last two of medium length and naturally cut. Nothing deforms a man more than bad hair cutting and an unnatural deformity in wearing it. Abstain from all eccentricities. Take the medium between nature and fashion, which is the best rule in regard to dress and appearance that can be given.

"Behavior in the Street: Ladies are not allowed upon ordinary occasions to take the arm of anyone but a relative, or an accepted lover.

"Of course, the conversation of a stranger, beyond asking a necessary question, must be considered as a gross insult, and repelled with proper spirit."

The people in our family trees were governed by societal rules like these, and becoming familiar with the morals and mores of each era will help us understand what motivated our ancestors.

When I was growing up, my mother's rules for me bordered somewhat on the Victorian, although I was at least a half century beyond that time. I supposed, in my naivety, that these were the rules followed by ALL my ancestors. Imagine my shock when I began working with family lineage and found some of my forebears - and others in the family - had brought forth an initial offspring in less than the "required" length of time.

I looked at some of those records and swallowed. Some things never change, do they?

PLUMBING THE PENSION FILES

Some of the most helpful genealogical records may be found in Revolutionary War pension files.

Of course, the rules were different for different service and some who fought in that war may not have qualified for a pension. Three main types of pensions were provided during and after the Revolutionary War by the new government for veterans and their families.

Those three main types are:

Disability or Invalid: These were for those disabled during the war; Widow's Pensions for women whose husbands were killed in the war; and Pensions granted to veterans for serving specific periods.

While many pension records are still available, most applications received before 11/8/1800 were destroyed - either by a fire on that date - or by the fire of 1814, caused when the British burned Washington DC during the War of 1812.

Congress granted pensions to Rev. War personnel for service from which they suffered no disabilities. However, these did not apply to all veterans, only those in most desperate financial need. As with any grant of funds, many applied for pensions, and in 1820 it was necessary for Congress to enact remedial legislation to weed out false applications or applicants.

This new law stated that every pensioner receiving money under the 1818 law, and everyone applying for pensions in the future would be required to enclose a certified appraisal of estate and income; needless to say, this cut the number of pensioners considerably.

The most liberal pension act for Rev. War veterans was also the last. It was passed in 1832 and provided that every officer or enlisted man who served at least two years in the Continental line, or state troops, volunteers or militia, qualified for a pension of full pay for life!

Those who had served less than the two years were eligible for pensions of less than full pay. Neither act (1832 or 1828, when surviving Rev. War soldiers were granted full pay for life) required the recipients to demonstrate need.

The application asked questions relating to (1) year of birth/age; (2) proof of same; (3) residence when called into service; residence since Rev. War; present residence; (4) names of (some of) regular officers of troops served with; such continental and militia regiments as could be recalled; general circumstances of service; (5) names of persons presently known to testify as to character and truthfulness, and their knowledge of applicant's military service.

The applicant then had to appear in open court in his home county, unless physically /medically unable to do so.

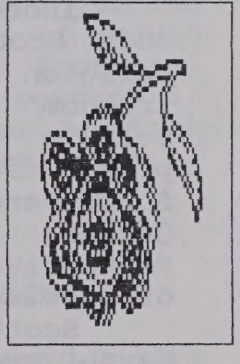
If official records were not available, applicant had to prove service through credible witnesses, who were required to provide, in affidavits, time of claimant's entering service, time and manner of leaving, and regiment, company and line served.

The most complete roll of Revolutionary War pensioners is the Pension Roll of 1835; this record has recently been indexed and published in four volumes by the Genealogical Publishing Company of Baltimore, Maryland. Check your library first.

The Military Service Branch, National Archives and Records Service, will search its file for a nominal fee of about $10 per search. Send your inquiries to 8th Street and Pennsylvania Avenue NW, Washington DC 20408.

The first thing to request is: several copies of NATF Form 80. Fill out the forms as completely as possible, and do not combine pension searches with a request for a military record search. Pension files will probably be of the most help to you in researching lineages. Of course, the process often takes several months before you receive a response, so you need to be working on another project while waiting for responses from this source.

GOOD GENES?



In 1992, a Hollywood mother and daughter were nominated for Oscars for the same film, "Rambling Rose." They were, mother Diane Ladd, for Best Supporting Actress and daughter, Laura Dern, for Best Actress. However, neither won.

JUST A WEE BIT OF SCOTCH

If you're Scottish (as are a lot of us), your name may begin with Mac or Mc, or it may be something like Ross. And if your forefathers/mothers came to America from Scotland in the Eighteenth Century, they were probably Presbyterian, although many Scots, especially those from the Highlands, were Roman Catholic.

Some Scots gave us new religious sects. John Glas began the group known as the "Glasites" that used primitive rituals. After coming to this country, they were known as "Sandemanians," for Glas' son-in-law, Robert Sandeman.

Many Scottish clergymen came here, and you may research such books as The Colonial Clergy of Maryland Delaware and Georgia, The Colonial Clergy of the Middle Colonies 1628-1776 (NY, NJ, PA), The Colonial Clergy and the Colonial Churches of New England. Reprints of these books are available through the Baltimore firm of The Clearfield Company, and many local genealogical libraries will have them on their shelves, as well.

Indeed, the reason for much Scottish settlement was religion itself - and the freedom to practice one's beliefs without fear of prosecution. East Jersey and South Carolina were havens for Quakers and Presbyterians, respectively, due to the Church of Scotland's Episcopal laws.

Scottish settlements in North America included Nova Scotia (1619), and, as mentioned above, East Jersey (1683), and South Carolina (1684).

Others came here because they were criminals or had lost everything in their native land. The English Civil War, when Cromwell defeated the Scots in three different wars between 1648 and 1851 (the Scots are a robust, stubborn breed, and reluctant to give in or give up) resulted in large bunches of prisoners being sent here. Others were deported for their roles in the Argyll Rebellion, to East Jersey (part of New Jersey).

The southern and mid-Atlantic colonies were popular with Scots during the 17th and 18th centuries, while Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, North and South Carolina and Virginia became home to transported criminals or those who had espoused a losing political or religious cause.

The 1790 census indicated that more than 6% of the 250,000+ population were of Scottish descent. North Carolina, Pennsylvania and Virginia had the highest Scottish populations.

Excellent information on Scottish names may be found in The Surnames of Scotland, by George F. Black.

Other books you may find of interest include Directory of Scottish Settlers in North America, 1625-1825 (David Dobson; Scottish Family History: A Guide to Works of Reference on the History & Genealogy of Scottish Families (Margaret Stuart); Emigrants from Scotland (Viola Cameron); In Search of Your British and Irish Roots: A Complete Guide to Tracing Your English, Welsh, Scottish and Irish Ancestors (Angus Baxter); and Director of Scots in the Carolinas, 1680-1830 (David Dobson).

Most Scottish settlers retained their loyalty to the crown during the War for Independence, sometimes moving to Canada or returning to their homelands to avoid problems in the new nation.

A Bibliography of Loyalist Source Material in the United States, Canada and Great Britain (Gregory Palmer, Mecker Pub. Co., Westport CT) has information concerning others who remained Loyalists.

The American Dream remained strong, however, and those of Scottish birth kept coming here, with about a half million arriving in the period just before the Civil War to World War I. They brought with them the skills of weaving, spinning and textiles, as well as printing, barbering, butchering, baking, wig making, painting (portraits), and mining, while others were jewelers, gardeners, coopers or storekeepers.

The importance of the Clan to the Scottish is revealed in the fraternal groups they formed. New York is believed to be home, in 1756, of the first St. Andrews Society, although other references base it on a group begun in Charleston in 1729. The Scots Charitable Society of Boston was founded in 1657, with several other cities organizing groups soon.

Look over the names of towns in your state. You may find Aberdeen, Edinburg, Glasgow or even Scotland on the road map in your glove compartment. Illinois maps show relationship with Scotland in all of the above towns except Aberdeen. Illinois also has two towns named Ross, and another named Rossville.

You can bet these areas have present-day descendants of those hardy Scots who came her over the past three or four hundred years. ♦♦♦♦

HEREDITY MUST HAVE SOMETHING TO DO WITH IT!

American twin brothers Phil and Steve Mahre won medals in the 1984 Winter Olympics, with Phil winning the gold and Steve the silver in Alpine Skiing. The difference was a mere 0.21 second!

In the years 1968, 1975 and 1981 the Indianapolis Five Hundred was won by Bobby Unser, while brother Al received the checkered flag in 1970, 1971, 1978 and 1987.

Other brothers gaining stardom in the world of sports are the Hebert Brothers. Lionel won the PGA tourney in 1957, and his brother Jay took the title three years later.

TITLES CAN BE CONFUSING

Our forebears used titles in various ways; in Europe, the use of titles was much more explicit and controlled, while early settlers used variations that can cause much confusion when you're trying to figure out just who is who in the family tree.

Some of the titles that once denoted social position were Goodman, Goodwife, Colonel, Mr., Mrs., Gentleman, and Esquire.

Goodman and Goodwife merely designated the male and female heads of a given household.

Colonel might refer to a military rank, but it was also quite common to receive the title as an honorarium, as today's "Kentucky Colonels," do. Southern planters seem especially to have enjoyed this title, using it all their lives even though they'd never donned a military uniform.

The original use of Mr. and Mrs. was intended only for persons of the upper class. The problem arises, however, in their use of Mrs. for both married and single women.

This means you cannot rely on MRS. to determine that that woman is actually married to the MR. of that particular family. John Smith might have both a wife - Mrs. Mary Smith - and a daughter - Mrs. Maryjane Smith - using the same title.

Gentleman and Esquire were used for men of social standing, such as clergymen, lawyers, or physicians. In some communities, and during some periods, the use of Esquire denoted an attorney, and still does, somewhat.

RESEARCHER'S SYMBOLS

In an effort to standardize symbols used in genealogy, "The Researchers Guide to American Genealogy" provides symbols or marks that assist a researcher. By using these marks, it is not necessary to copy down long phrases.

This is another list you might like to copy on that sturdy cardboard to keep handy when you're doing research.

HOW TO FIGURE YEAR OF BIRTH FROM CENSUS RECORDS

The year of birth can be the year obtained by subtracting the age given in the census from the year of the census. Or, it can be the year preceding that calculation.

Example: Man born 9/13/1804. The 1850 census, taken 8/50, correctly gives his age as 45 (he was actually 45 years, 11 months old). If you subtract 45 from 1850, that incorrectly makes his birth year 1805.

Subtracting the age given in the census from the year of the census DOES give the correct year of persons born on any day preceding the day the census was taken, or any day prior thereto, back to January 1.

NAMES AND THEIR TRANSLATIONS

Names are often translated across national and ethnic lines, resulting in similar or very dissimilar words.

Below are listed American or English words/names, followed by (1) French, (2) German, (3) Italian, (4) Spanish, (5) Swedish and (6) Polish translations:

Apple, Pomme, Apfel, Mela, Manzana, Apple, Jablko;
Bank, Rive, Ufer, Riva, Ribera, Strand, Bank; Barber, Coiffeur, Frisor, Barbiere, Barbero, Barberare, Fryzjer; Butcher, Boucher, Fleischer, Macellaio, Carnicero, Slaktare, Rzeznik; Carpenter, Charpentier, Zimmerman, Faegname, Carpintero, Snickare, Ciesla; Castle, Chateau, Schloss, Castello;, Castillo, Slott, Zamek Cook, Cuisinier, Koch Cuoco, Cocinero, Kock, Kucharz; Farmer, Fermier, Bauer, Coltivatore, Agricultor, Bonde, Dzierzawca; Fox, Renard, Fuchs, Volpe, Zorra, Rav, Lis; Gale, Vent, Sturm, Bufera, Ventarron, Blast, Wiatr; Green(e), Vert, Grun, Verde, Verde, Gron, Zielonosc; King, Roi, Konig, Re, Rey, Kung, Krol; Lion, Lion, Lowe, Leone, Leon, Lejon, Lew; Love, Amour, Liebe, Amore, Amor, Karlek, Milosc; North, Nord, Norden, Settentriome, Norte, Nord, Polnoc; Parson, Cure, Pfarrer, Ministro, Clerigo, Kyrkoherde, Pastor; Peer, Pareil, Gleiche, Pari, Par, Like, Rowny; Reed, Roseau, Rohr, Canna, Junco, Vass, Trzcina; Rice, Riz, Reis, Riso, Arroz, Ris, Ryz; Rich, Riche, Reich, Ricco, Rico, Rik, Bogaty; Roman, Romain, Romisch, Romano Romano, Romersk, Rsymianin; Sherpherd, Berger, Hirt, Pastore, Pastor, Herde, Pasterz; Shore, Rive, Ufer, Riva, Ribera, Strand, Podporka; Spear, Lance, Speer, Lancia, Lanza, Spjut, Wlocznia; Steel, Acier, Stahl, Acciaio, Acero, Stal, Stal; Tower, Tour, Turm, torre, Torre, torn, Wieza; Victor, Vainqueur, Sieger, Vincitore, Vencedor, Segrare, Zwyciezca; Vine, Vigne, Weinstock, Vite, Vid, Vinranka, Winograd; White, Blanc, Weiss, Bianco, Blanco, Vit, Bialy; Wood, Boise, Wald, Bosco, Bosque, Skog, Drzewo; Young, Jeune, Jung, Giovane, Joven, Ung, Mlode.

You can definitely see some of the similarities, in pronunciation and/or spelling, of the various words with the same meaning.

These words may sometimes be found, while you are researching, on tombstones, towns, and many documents. A little knowledge about these similarities can be of help in your searches.

It also helps to become familiar with several prefixes and suffixes: AT (Attwell-at the well); BI, BY, (Beside); BOTLE, BOTTLE (abode or house); BURG, BURUR, BURH, BURY, BURGH, BOROUGH (traditionally, a town or area that is fortified); BY, BAER, BOER, BYR, BO, BUA (to dwell in, as a building/farm originally, later a town); CARRICK, CRAIG, CRICK, CRAU (rock or crag); CHESTER, CESTER, CASTER, CEASTER (sites of Roman occupation); COMBE, CUM (hollow in side of a hill); DELL, DALE, THAL (valley); DEN, DENE, DENU (woodlands where animals might graze); DIC, CYKE, DITCH (ditch); DON, DUN (hill, fort or earthenworks); DORP, DORF, TREF, TREB, TREV, TRE, (township or hamlet); FIELD, MAT, MAES, MAGH, MAG, (residence by a field); FORD, FJORD, FUHRT, FORDE, (crossing of a stream; originally an arm of the sea); GALE, GILL (ravine, hill hollow, or lane); GARTH, ACRE (small field or yard); HALL, HEALH (stone house or slope or bank, usually steep); HAM, HEIM, HEN, HOME (usually added to name of original settler, as in Nottingham); HOP (small inlet, marsh pool); LEY, LOO, LEA, LEIGH (fallow land or pasture, woodland clearing); OR (sea or river shore); RIDGE, HRYCG, RUDGE, RIGGE (ridge); SCULF, SHELF, SHEL, SKEL (a shelf or lodge); THWAITE (to chop, or place cleared of woods); TON, TUN (farmstead, usually with descriptive suffix); WEALD, WALL (homestead by the wall); WICK, WICH (a dwelling place or bay).

European towns often have some of the endings (or beginnings) shown above, and often in lengthy place names. You can also find these same terms in the names of American towns and cities, demonstrating ties with the settlers' heritage.

The ending "borg" when used in the name of a Danish town indicates that the town has, or at one time had, a castle; hence the definition above relating to "fortification." The ending "skov," while not listed above, means forest in Denmark, denoting the presence of a wooded area, at least at one time.

Probably one of the most popular usages of the above terms is "burg," as countless cities, towns and villages across America end with burg or berg. Maybe your town ends with burg, and there's probably a "burg" close by, too.

IMMIGRATION

One way to confirm your ancestor's arrival (and possibly learn which other family members came too) is to inspect passenger lists at the port of entry of your ancestor. If you know the year, it makes the search much easier. Below are ports and the dates of their passenger listings:

Alexandria, VA - 1820-52
Annapolis, MD - 1849
Baltimore, MD - 1820-1909
Bangor, ME - 1848
Barnstable, MA - 1820-26
Bath, ME - 1825-32, 1867
Boston, MA - 1820-1943
Bristol/Warren, RI - 1820-24, 1828, 1843-71
Charleston, SC - 1820-29, 1906-45
Galveston, TX - 1846-71
Jacksonville, FL - 1804-45

MAKING SENSE OF SOUNDEX

The Soundex filing system, alphabetic for the first letter of surname and numeric thereunder as indicated by divider cards, keeps together names of the same and similar sounds, but of variant spellings.

To search for a particular name, you must work out the code number for the surname of the individual. No number is assigned to the first letter of the surname.

If the name is Kuhne, for example, the index card will be in the "K" segment of the Index. The code number of Kuhne, worked out according to the system below, is 500.

SOUNDEX CODING GUIDE

Code	Key Letters and Equivalents
1	b, p, f. v
2	c, s, k, g, j, q, x, z
3	d, t
4	l
5	m, n
6	r

The letters a, e, i, o, u, y, w, and h are NOT coded.

The first letter of the surname is NOT coded.

Every Soundex number must be a 3-digit number. A name yielding no code numbers, such as Lee, would be L-000; on yielding one code number would have two zeros added, as Kuhne, coded as K-500; and one yielding two code numbers would have one zero added, as Ebell, coded as E-140. Not more than three digits are used, so Ebelson would be coded as E-142, NOT

2 Jas. Robt. Ferguson, 1975

3 Frances Ferguson Marcussen & Frances Ann Ross, 1965

4 Dale B. Ferguson & Frances F. Marcussen
CA. 1961

5 Ferguson Cousins, 12/65

E-1425.

When two key letters or equivalents appear together, or one key letter immediately follows or precedes an equivalent, the two are coded as one letter, by a single number, as follows: Kelly, coded as K-400; Buerck, coded as B-620; Lloyd, coded at L-300; and Schaefer, coded as S-160.

If several surnames have the same code, the cards for them are arranged alphabetically by given name. There are divider cards showing most code numbers but not all. For instance, one divider may be numbered 350 and the next one 400. Between the two divider cards there may be names coded 353, 350, 360, 364, 365, and 355, but instead of being in numerical order, they are inter-filed alphabetically by given name.

Such prefixes to surnames as "van," "von," "Di," "de," "le," "di," "D," "dela," or "du" are sometimes disregarded in alphabetizing and in coding.

The following names are examples of Soundex coding and are given only as illustration:

HISTORY OF THE CLEVELANDS

IF THE reader will examine Middlesbrough's "New International Encyclopedia," he will find the derivation of the name Cleveland and the country from which they originated to be as follows:

Clif, Clef, Pl. Clives, Cleves, Cliffs plus land equals Cleveland.

A hilly region with some picturesque fertile valleys forming the eastern part of North Riding of Yorkshire, England, between Whity and the Tees. Some of the heights are marked by mounds called "houses." Many archeological relics have been found among the hills. It has become a populous mining district, owing to the discovery of limestone.

In 1851 an eminent English antiquarian wrote to Bishop A. Cleveland Coxe, of Buffalo, N. Y., that the Clevelands of America were descended from William Cleveland, who removed from York to Henckley in Leichestershire, where he was buried a very old man in 1630. His son, Thomas, became Vicar of Henckley, the family estate. One of his sons was John Cleveland, the poet; another son, Thomas, may have been the father of Moses Cleveland, the emigrant, who came in 1635 from Ipswich, Suffolk County, England, to Massachusetts.

John Cleveland (1613-58). An English Cavalier poet. He was born at Lougborough, Leicester, and educated at Cambridge, where in 1634 he became a fellow of St. Johns. Six years later he strenuously opposed Cromwell, and in consequence lost his fellowship in 1645. Joining the Royalist, he was appointed Judge Advocate in the King's Army in 1655, he was sieged at Norwich and imprisoned at Yarmouth for three months; when he was released by Cromwell after that he lived in retirement.

Cleveland had a great reputation as a wit, satirist. A volume of his poems in circulation before 1656 was reissued in that year. In 1687 appeared his collection entitled Clevelandi Vindicial, which attempts to combine several of his preceding publications.

The bibliography of Cleveland is too complicated for treatment here. Cleveland still awaits a competent editor; Thomas Fuller describes him as: "A General Artist, Pure Latinist, Exquisite Orator and Eminent Poet."

—From "New International Encyclopedia."

There is also a tradition that a Cleveland of Henckley came over to Virginia, with Skepworth and Herrick. He was later, 1653, at Salem, Mass. His coat of arms gave proof that he was a very distinguished gentleman of England.

The Cleveland family have to their credit many illustrious names, both in England and the United States. The most celebrated on this side of the water was Grover Cleveland, three times a candidate and twice elected President of the United States. James B. Cleveland, of Oneonta, N. Y., published a book in three parts in 1881 about the Cleveland family. We have had access to part I, and from this we glean the following information:

"From the year 1200 A. D. up to the present, the family have spelled the name in a variety of ways, sometimes the same individual in the family spelling his name at different times in his life in more than one way."

It is Clyveland and Cleveland. The last was one adopted by the members of the family who came to this State. There used also to be "de" before the name, but that was dropped when they emigrated to this country as being undemocratic. Sir Guy de Cleveland was knighted at the siege of Boulogne by the King and was therefore entitled to have a coat of arms, a crest and motto. (For description of crests and coat of arms see J. B. Cleveland's book about the Clevelands.)

The Clevelands seem to have had rather more than their share of mottoes, claiming two as belonging to them, "pro deo at patrio"—"For God and Country." Showing them to be both patriotic and a religious family. Another motto, "semet et semper"—once and always, meaning, "Once a Friend Always a Friend," or opposite. Both mottoes, I think, have been somewhat characteristic of the family.

For given names, the Clevelands used Bible names or abstract qualities, as, Faith, Hope, Perseverance, Justice, Mercy, Answer to Prayer, Abigail, Sarah, Ephraim, Abraham, Benjamin, Jacob, and by no means were Joseph and Gypsy wife, Asenath, forgotten. James B. Cleveland deals mostly with part of Cleveland family descended from Moses Cleveland, who came to Massachusetts in 1635. Many counties and towns are named for them. Cleveland, Ohio, one of the most noted and largest cities in the world named for a citizen of the United States.

—"New International Encyclopedia."

D. A. R. Magazine, 1719:

All Clevelands, except the New England stock, descended from Alexander Cleveland, Sr. He settled in Virginia and had at least one son, Alexander, Jr., born 1667. He married Margaret McMinn, and they had the following children: John, Alexander, Micajah, Elizabeth, Jeremiah, Jacob, Martha, Reuben, Daniel, Larkin. Jeremiah, Jr., had at least two children: Reuben and Jacob. My ancestor, Jacob, was born in Culpepper County, Va., May, 1739. He married Milly White, October 10, 1756. She was a sister of Rev. John White, Baptist minister of Virginia, and also Ruckersville, Ga., Elbert County.

From Colonial records of North Carolina, a letter from M. K. Cleveland, Secretary to Admiralty, dated February 28, 1757, we learn that about the year 1790 the churches, composing a certain conference, formed a distinct association, and that the ministers belonging to this were: George M. Neal, John Cleveland, William Pitty, William Stone, Cleveland Coffee, Andrew Baker and John Stone.

John Cleveland, son of Alexander, Jr., and Margaret McMinn Cleveland, and father of Benjamin, John, Robert and Jeremiah, died about 1778. He settled early in 1700 in Orange County, Va.

Robert Cleveland was father of sixteen children. Jeremiah, one of his sons, was grandfather of Marietta, Ga., Clevelands.

Wheeler, in his history of North Carolina, page 462, has this to say of Benjamin Cleveland: "Col. Benjamin Cleveland, hero of King's Mountain, after whom Cleveland County is named, lived and died in Wilkes County, Cleveland County was formed in 1841 out of Rutherford and Lincoln counties. He was a brave and meritorious soldier. A serious impediment in his speech prevented his entering political life. However, he was a Senator to General Assembly from Wilkes County in 1779. In 1775 he was appointed ensign in second regiment of troops and served in battle at Kings Mountain. Hero of one hundred fights with Tories. Surveyor of Wilkes County. Capt. Robert Cleveland was little less distinguished than his brother, and was with him in a majority of his campaigns.

—From V. Magazine, Vol. 7.

Letter written to Dr. Draper from Maj. Red:

"The Clevelands, or the grandparents of Col. Cleveland, died about 1770. I do not know their given names. The father of Col. Cleveland was named John. He and his wife were living in 1774. How much longer they lived, I do not know. I never knew the Clevelands claimed descent from Oliver Cromwell. Claxby and Smith, who married two of Col. Cleveland's sisters, were men of but little note. Franklin, who married the other, was a man of very fine standing in the county.

"I do not know what became of Claxby. Smith moved to Kentucky. Franklin moved to Surry County, N. C., settled on Mitchell's River and lived there until his death. He raised a large family of children, some of whom became men of distinction. Jesse was a member of the United States Senate, and afterwards Governor of North Carolina. Meshac, the younger brother, was a member of Congress from the same state several years. Abednigo, the youngest, emigrated to Georgia and became a man of considerable distinction.

"Col. Benjamin Cleveland and Martin Sumpter were the best of friends in their youthful days. Col. Cleveland was born and reared in the southern part of Orange, Va., six or eight miles from the mouth of a north-side branch of the Rapidan River, called the Blue Run. John Cleveland, the father of Benjamin Cleveland, lived and died at this place. In my first recollection the father and mother, as well as grandfather and grandmother, lived until they were one hundred years of age, and what is very remarkable, they died very suddenly and within two or three days of each other. Col. Cleveland had four brothers and three sisters.

"Benjamin was the eldest. Col. Cleveland and John Cleveland and wives were members of the Baptist Church, and doubtless members of the Blue Run Baptist Church. There is a stream about a mile northeast of Barboursville, Va., called Cleveland's Run. It was probably named for the Clevelands, as they lived near it."

History of Spartanburg County, by Landrum, mentions Benjamin, John and Robert. John, the second son, Baptist minister of good standing, influence and ability. Robert Cleveland, Captain in his brother's regiment in the battle of King's Mountain. Among his children were Jeremiah and Jesse. Jesse emigrated from Wilkes County, N. C., in 1810, merchandising business. His son, Robert Easley Cleveland, graduated from Charleston Medical College, interested in the affairs of the town, successful in the treatment of typhoid, man of extensive reading and information. He was hospitable in home, social in nature, store of anecdotes and conversational qualities caused to be much sought after. He was survived by Hon. John B. Cleveland and Dr. Jesse F. Cleveland.

We learn from the State records of North Carolina, 1781, that Captain

John Cleveland, probably the son of Benjamin Cleveland, was appointed by the House of Commons to command troops.

John Cleveland, father of Rev. John Cleveland, was born about 1667 and died about 1778. He left a will in which he mentions daughters Mary, Franklin, Betty Claxby, Patty Smith; sons, Benjamin, John, Robert, Reuben (deceased), Jeremiah; and grandchildren, Betty and Austin Smith. No mention is made of his wife. In 1779 a short appraisement was made of John Cleveland.

From James B. Cleveland's book on the Clevelands, I glean the following: "John Cleveland, the second son and third child of John Cleveland and Martha Coffee Cleveland, was born about 1740 in Orange County, Va., and died about March, 1825, at Cleveland's Ferry, S. C., about ninety years of age. He and three brothers are said to have been at the Yorktown surrender. The children of John Cleveland were: John, Neal Cornelius, William, Fanny, Elizabeth, Jeremiah, Mary, Larkin and Benjamin. Rev. John Cleveland and one of his brothers went from Virginia about 1772-75, journeyed on pack horses, and cut their way through brush as they traveled. When he would preach the wicked people would take him out and beat him seriously, but he would preach on, and when they let him go, would mount a stump or log and finish his sermon. They came to Pickens District, S. C., and were of the first settlers. They lived in Pendleton District at Cleveland's Ferry. The Clevelands lived mostly in what is now Oconee County. He was one of the very first settlers of Franklin County, Ga., about 1785 (then inhabited by Indians). His home was on Tugaloo River, where he dwelt many years and reared his family, who settled at various points along the river. He was kind to his neighbors and the poor, and to his many darkies, who thought their master better than any other man.

"He was living with his daughter, Elizabeth, at the time of his death. Elizabeth was born at Cleveland's Ferry, and married Benjamin Harrison, of Carnesville, Ga."

J. F. Goode, in his "History of the Tugaloo Baptist Association," has this to say of John Cleveland: "John Cleveland was one of the delegates from the church by the name of Tugaloo River when the Association was organized in 1818. According to Campbell's History of Georgia Baptists, he was at that time a very aged man.

In his brief outline of the Tugaloo Association, held at Eastonollee in 1819, he speaks of John Cleveland as one of four aged ministers who were present. He was a delegate from Tugaloo River at each succeeding session until 1822; after that date his name is not mentioned again until the session in 1825, when the following resolution was passed: "We make this statement to commemorate the death of our father, John Cleveland, who passed this life on Friday before the fourth Sunday in March last, after being a preacher of the gospel for about fifty years. He died in full hope of being received to God through Christ, being in the eighty-seventh year of his age."

Albert Henry Newman states in Christian Index, printed September 6, 1895, that he has in his possession the roughly printed history of the travels of John Asphland, who was employed to gather material for a history of Baptists in this country, which states that in 1789 Tugaloo River was the only Baptist Church in Franklin County; that John Cleveland was pastor, and membership was 108 persons. It is not certainly known who was founder of this church, but the most reasonable conclusion is that it was founded by John Cleveland. It may not be amiss to state in this connection that Franklin County, in 1789, embraced in her territory what is now Hart, Madison, Oglethorpe, Clarke, Oconee, and a large territory in the forks of Seneca and Tugaloo rivers in South Carolina. The territory in South Carolina was in dispute at this time, but held by Georgia. This statement is made for the purpose of showing that in all probability John Cleveland was the first man who lifted the Standard of the Cross in the territory now or formerly embraced by the Tugaloo Association. From the little vine planted by him in the late years of the Eighteenth Century, arms have spread out east, west, north and south. And whatever may be said to the contrary, it is now a well-established fact that John Cleveland was the father of Baptist principles in the vast territory embraced by Franklin County, in 1789, and Tugaloo is the mother church.

In the biography of Thomas Gilbert, a statement is made that in all probability he and John Cleveland were intimately associated in establishing the church known as Tugaloo River, both being delegates to the first association, 1818, and continuing as delegates from same church until 1823.

John Cleveland, Francis Calloway, John Sandridge, John Bramlett, ministers, helped compose a Presbytery for the Clark's Creek Church, Franklin County, Ga., seven miles northeast of Carnesville, which church was constituted on the tenth day of December, 1824.

The Poplar Springs Church was constituted in May, 1815. According to statement made by Brother Henry Stovall, Joseph Chandler, Thomas Wilkins, John Nail, John Mullins, and James Jackson were some of the first members. John Cleveland, Thomas Gilbert and Francis Calloway, Jr., supplied the church until 1826. John Cleveland's name is again mentioned in connection with Francis Calloway, Nancy Meeks, John D. Terrell and David Barton, as composing a Presbytery September 8, 1810, for the Eastonolle Church.

At the 9th annual session of the Tugaloo Association held at Beaverdam Church, Pendleton District, S. C., on Saturday before the third Sabbath in September, 1826, the death of old Father Cleveland is mentioned in very touching language with the statement that he had been a minister for fifty years, and was eighty-seven years of age at the time of his death."

Among the old records at Carnesville is a book containing the names of persons entitled to draws in the land lottery of 1825, and its continuancy taken by Joseph Chandler and H. M. Payne. John Cleveland's name is mentioned as a Revolutioner, being entitled to two draws, and whose name had been given in for draws in the contemplated Land Lottery under Acts of the Legislature of the 9th of June, 1825, and of 24th of December, 1825, and of the 14th of December, 1826, in Col. John H. Patrick's Regiment, composed of Major Shackleford and Chandler's Battalion, January 3d, 1827, signed Joseph Chandler, Maxfield H. Payne, L.L.C.

Thomas Gilbert and John Cleveland were usually associated in their work. The families were connected, we know. There is a record of a will made by Thomas Gilbert in the County Clerk's office at Carnesville, Ga., made in 1810. He wills all his estate to Polly and Betty and he states a wish that his other children will be satisfied as he has given them what he could afford. He says Polly and Betty have helped him accumulate his property and have taken care of him and his wife in their infirmities, weakness and old age. Witness: John Cleveland.

Polly and Betty willed same estate to their nephews, Cornelius and Thomas Cleveland. Reuben Cleveland was the father of Cornelius and Thomas, and the son of one John Cleveland. By the will we see he had to be the son of one of Gilbert's five daughters. Doubtless his father was the John Cleveland who was the son of Rev. John Cleveland. I have read that John was his eldest child.

Thomas Gilbert was born in Orange County, Va. He was of English descent. He married Ann Farneyho, of Virginia and Maryland.

Thomas Gilbert was a Revolutionary soldier and obtained large grants of land from the government. It has been said that at one time he owned one hundred thousand acres of land in north Georgia and Tennessee, and that he had many slaves. He was one of the first to go to Louisville, Ga., to frame a Constitution for the State of Georgia.

Dozier Thornton married Thomas Gilbert's granddaughter, Mrs. Pulliam. George Stovall married Mrs. Pulliam's daughter. Thomas Gilbert's daughters, Betty and Polly, were known as the English Aunts, and were noted for their cooking and immaculate housekeeping. They were fond of growing flowers.

Thomas Gilbert died at the age of ninety, about 1820-25.

About ten miles north of Hartwell, Ga., on the summit of a beautiful hill overlooking the verdant valley and the limpid stream of the Tugaloo, lie Thomas Gilbert, his wife, and Polly and Betty, peacefully sleeping in what used to be their flower garden. Their graves marked with rough, unlettered stones, and covered with tomb vines. Between this hill and the river is another burial ground. About sixty years ago Reuben Cleveland was buried here. After spreading joy and sunshine for nearly a century, for his was a happy nature, he has gone to rest, and the Tugaloo will forever sing to him about the good that he has done, while the tall pines above his grave will always look after him by each year covering his grave with a soft blanket of needles.

Reuben Cleveland married Nancy Bryan, and to them were born the following children: John Ashley, Obadiah, Thomas and Cornelius, boys; and Rebecca, Alpha, Elizabeth and Hannah, girls. Hannah married a man by the name of Farr. Ashley married Mary Skelton.

In 1837 Reuben Cleveland purchased from Joshua Carpenter a plantation situated on Whinnery's Creek on the Reed Creek highway, about four miles from Hartwell, Ga. This plantation is now owned by T. J. Cleveland, grandson of Reuben Cleveland.

Obadiah, the son of Reuben Cleveland, married Ann Skelton in 1840. She died March 16, 1885. There were five other daughters included in his wife's family, namely: Mary, Nelly, Rachael, Milly and Clarissa. There were four boys in this family: Wesley, Hymer, Larkin and Vandiver.

Obadiah served in the War Between the States, and was killed in the battle of Griswold Mill, ten miles south of Macon, Ga. His grave is unknown.

No shroud or coffin was allowed his mutiliated body. There is a marker in the National Cemetery at Macon, Ga., with O. Cleveland on it.

About 1851, Obadiah bought from his father the above mentioned plantation, and while living there the following children were born: George Washington, Jasper Marion, Andrew Jackson, King David, John Wesley, and Thomas Jefferson, who all lived to be grown men. Two sons and one daughter died in infancy. G. W. Cleveland married Martha Allen, who was the daughter of James Allen, a member of the Legislature directly following the war. After her death, he was married again to Evelyn Smith, who is still living near Hartwell, Ga. G. W. was wounded in the Civil War and died in 1902.

Jasper Cleveland died in Virginia, 1862, at the age of 18, while serving in the same war.

A. J. Cleveland, also a Confederate soldier and a Baptist minister, died, 1921, at the age of 80. He was married to Mary Ann Vickery.

K. D. Cleveland, now living at Gadsden, Ala., is the fourth son of Obadiah who fought for the cause of the Confederacy. He was married to Jane Vickery, who died in 1928

J. W. Cleveland married Nancy Dyar. He died in 1929, a few years after his wife's death.

T. J. Cleveland married Lou A. Boleman. The following is an extract from Lucian Knight's History of Georgia, Volume V, page 2541, written about the year 1914:

"Professor Thomas Jefferson Cleveland is known as a prominent educator, whose life has been spent in the advancement of humanity and progress along educational lines. His ability and knowledge have found a medium through which to reach the people of recent years in the position of County Superintendent of Schools in Elbert County, where his untiring labors have accomplished wonders in advancing, elevating and developing the school system.

"Professor Cleveland was born in Hart County, Ga., May 18, 1860, and is a son of Obadiah and Ann (Skelton) Cleveland, natives of Franklin County, Ga. His father, who was engaged in agricultural pursuits in Franklin County, enlisted for service in the Confederate Army during the War Between the North and the South, and met a soldier's death on the battlefield at Griswold Mill, in 1864, being then forty years of age. The mother survived until 1885, and was sixty-two years old at the time of her death.

"The youngest of his parents' nine children, and growing up at a time when the country was just recovering from ravages of an invading army, Thomas Jefferson Cleveland's education was of a somewhat ordinary character, although his instruction was of a practical nature, and as such was of much general value to him when he came in contact with a life's work that has required all his energies. Having received the rudiments of his education in the public schools of Hart County, he further advanced himself by attending the high school, and taught his first school at the age of nineteen in the county of his birth. After several years thus spent, he accumulated the means with which to enter the University of Georgia, which he left in his sophomore year. Before going to the University his worth as a teacher had been established, and upon his return he was employed to teach in Marshall County, Ala., where he remained two years; it was his constant aim to elevate the character of the schools of the county, and he accomplished much in that direction, many of his former students today figuring prominently in places of trust and responsibility. After two years in Marshall County, Ala., Professor Cleveland spent eight years in Hart County, and then came to Elbert County, where for a quarter of a century he has continued to be one of the most popular educators this section has known. Notable is the fact that eighteen years of this period were spent at Montevideo, both as teacher and principal, his work always recommending him for a call to the same position.

"When the Board of Education of Elbert County commenced to look around for a Superintendent of ability, well versed in the system of public schools, and splendidly equipped as an educator and disciplinarian, Prof. Cleveland was elected by the people to fill the laborious and important place. This was in 1912. Since that time he has labored continuously at his post, giving that satisfaction which can be given only by a man whose soul is in his work. His proficiency is best attested by the satisfaction he has given. Having supervision over thirty-eight colored and forty-four white schools in Elbert County, his duties are many and laborious, yet he is a tireless worker, and has won his way through his unremitting exertions to a front rank and has among the foremost educators of Georgia. His ideas are progressive and unusual and their working out has been attended with excellent results.

On January 21, 1883, Professor Cleveland was married at Hartwell, Georgia, to Miss Lou A. Boleman, daughter of the late W. H. Boleman, who was well known in Hart County. Six children have been born to this union: Mrs. Anna Crawford, born in Marshall County, Alabama, who is the mother of five children and resides at Elberton; Mrs. Maggie Higginbotham, born at Hartwell, Georgia, who resides in Elbert County, and is the mother of two children; Mrs. Pearl Myers, born in Elbert County, and is the mother of two children; D. M., born in Elbert County, who is engaged in teaching and agricultural pursuits, in this county, is married and has two children; Miss Dixie, who was born in Elbert County, is now the wife of Dr. J. L. Cooley of Bellaire, Kansas, and Miss Opal, born in Elbert County, who is a student at the Elberton High School."

Subject: Jacob Cleaveland

It wil take additional work before I am reasonably sure, but I have evidence to support the placing of Jacob as the son of John.

Orange County
In 1749 Alexander Cleveland Jr 1 tithe
John Cleveland 3 tithes

1755 a survey for Jacob Cleaveland for 99a North Garden, Albemarle County.

It would appear that Jacob, son of John, was of age 16 by 1749 and had by 1753 moved to Albemarle County.

This is only a preliminary statement; but it appears to be reasonable.

The following table is one that I set up to see the relationships. It is a working model and is not complete, i.e., not edited nor do I have complete source citations. The tithable lists all came from my book. It also does not have the references to the order book entries indexed in the TLC index to the 1734-41 court orders. Jacob first appears in 1752 and is most probably one of John's tithes in 1749 which would set his birth date at ca. 1732. He last appears in the records for Orange and Albemarle in 1778.

The Clevelands show a consistent pattern of not listing all of their children in their wills which also supports establishing Jacob as a son of John. However, I have no actual evidence that he is. If, as the Cleveland genealogy suggests he and Rhoda both appear in the same area with Larkin then a careful look at whether they appeared together, etc. might add some additional evidence. I have not found Rhoda in the records here and am assuming that you have read the Draper manuscript references to Cleveland from both the Kings Mountain/Tennessee papers and the Thomas Sumter papers. THIS NEEDS TO BE RESEARCHED, JACOB MUST

I find no evidence that the Clevelands were in Culpeper County; however, the Franklin land was close to the Rapidan River so they may have been over the river and not left records. HAVE SERVED UNDER HIM AT SOME POINT.

The records of Prince William, Fairfax, etc. need to be gleaned for Cleveland. They may help sort out some of the contradictions especially since William Cleveland's pension file shows him as born in Albemarle, living in Prince William, Fauquier and then Loudoun before going to Kentucky.

Hope this is helpful. I was working primarily the Franklin line and William Cleveland so do not have everything on the other Clevelands.

Dear Vikki

I received your letter about the Cleveland family tree. I am happy to share what I know. I wish that I had more information. I have thought of doing some work and getting information together but so far time has not permitted me to do so. I would like to receive more information. I am sending a few stamps. I do appreciate your time and effort.

This is what I have —

It is speculated that George[1] might be another son of Alexander[2] Cleveland, since from the deeds listed above, it is definite that George[2] was actually George,Jr.

However, it is also entirely possible that Alexander[1] Cleveland may have had more than the one son, Alexander[2]; and that the George Cleveland branch of the family may have come down from an unknown brother of Alexander[2].

Confusing the issue again, there is another George Cleveland who married Sally Hayne or Sally Haynie, 16 April 1792, in Franklin County, Northumberland, St. Stephen's Parish, VA. She married 2) Francis Kirtley, and died a widow, 8 Aug 1825. Sally Haynie was born 14 Aug 1775. ("Virginia Vital Records," by Judith McGhan, editor, General Publishing Co., Baltimore, MD; republished from Virginia Magazine and William & Mary Quarterly). So who was this George?

Deed N-271 Culpeper County, Va. 1786, states that George Cleveland, Jr. of Shenandoah County, Va., purchased 474 acres of land on top of the Blue Ridge for 60 lbs.

Deed O-172 Culpeper County, Va. 1787, states that George Cleveland of Frederick County, Virginia, sold 100 acres of the above land for 80 lbs.

Deed I-J 30 Shenandoah County, Va. 1792, states that George and Hannah Cleveland, of Frederick County, Va., sold the remaining acreage of this land (originally in Culpeper, presently in Shenandoah County) for 30 lbs.

So if this was George Cleveland, Jr., there must have been a George, Sr. who was probably another son of Alexander[2] Cleveland. He originally lived in Shenandoah County (1786) but had moved to Frederick County (1787).
IDS file #8117730 65 (cleared) says that John[3] Cleveland was born in Shenandoah County - and lends credence to this George[2] being the father.

George[3] Cleveland came to Kentucky in 1781 according to Family records; but according to George's own affidavit made for his brother John's pension, he was present at John's wedding in Frederick County in February, 1782; so he must have come in 1782, not 1781.

George married Hester Sherwood in Woodford County, Ky. (the first recorded marriage for that new county), and bought property there in 1812, but census records for 1810 show him living in Jessamine County where he eventually bought property. Then in 1840, when George was 81 years old and Hettay was 72, he started buying up the old Sherwood Farm (Deeds G-295, N-206, N-272, Jessamine County).

George made a burial ground on his farm, and there he buried four daughters, several grandchildren, a daughter-in-law, and lastly his wife; and there he himself was also buried.

Elizabeth Robinson (Robertson-?) had a sister, Jane A. Hand, and a brother, James Robinson (Robertson-?)[c]. The pension application says the name was Robinson, but descendants say the name, Robertson[d].

John Cleveland was wounded in battle of Brandywine, 11 Sept. 1777[d]; younger brother, William, was killed there[c].

Col.[d] John Cleveland, Frederick Co., Va., resided in Shenandoah Co., Va. at beginning of Revolutionary War; served as private[c] in Capt Bell's company, Col. Gibson's regiment, 13th Va. line, as stated in application for pension[c] witnessed by brother, George, on John's deathbed, July 28, 1832. John removed from Frederick Co., Va., to Harrison Co., Ky at close of war, or 1796, and lived there until death. His wife, Elizabeth, was living in 1848, age 94[d].

Whitfield Haydon Cleveland was named for his grandfather, Whitfield Haydon. He inherited $1,500 from his father's insurance, and 1/4 interest in the family farm, which he sold to his brother, Ernest, in 1902.

Haydon and Bessie Cleveland went to Oklahoma in 1902, raised a bumper crop of wheat, and lost it all in a hailstorm. They returned to Washington County, Kentucky, and then in January, 1905, bought a farm in Marion County, Kentucky, on Cartwright Creek (which served as a road), and there they raised their family.

He bought another farm in Nelson County, Kentucky, where he had typhoid fever, and eventually sold the farm to Bessie's brothers, in January, 1911.

Dick Bowman, a grandson, was a popular young man, and became the Private Secretary to GOV. THOMAS MITCHELL CAMPBELL, Governor of Texas, 1907 to 1910. He was the son of GEORGE BOWMAN and his wife ELIZA McFARLAND who settled in Collin County, Texas at the town of Plano where Dick Bowman was a lawyer.

MAJOR JOHN CALLAWAY, the brother of JOSEPH CALLAWAY, from the Yadkin Valley in Western North Carolina, settled in Sweetwater Valley, after living in KNOX County for many years where he served as Sheriff of the County. He has already been mentioned in the notes on the Callaway family set down in this manuscript. His children were:

1. JOSEPH CALLAWAY
2. Marshall Callaway
3. William S. Callaway
4. Hugh L. W. Callaway
5. James Callaway
6. Nancy Callaway
7. Judy Ann Callaway
8. Mary Callaway
9. Rebecca Callaway
10. Malinda Callaway.

The entire family left MONROE COUNTY and Sweetwarer alley and moved to Cass County Missouri in 1842.

4. HUGH BROWN HEISKELL m. RHODA FARMER and had ten children.
5. SARAH CATHERINE HEISKELL and JOHN PATTERSON had ten children.
8. JAMES MONTGOMERY HEISKELL married Miss Laura Jones and had three children.
9. MARGARET C. HEISKEL and DR. ABIJAH SCRUGGS, had five children.

So that it is evident that a complete catalog of all the descendants of DANIEL HEISKELL would take up the greater part of a very large volume.

JOSEPH DYCHE JONES was born in BEDFORD COUNTY, TENNESSEE was a cousin of REV. ELI CLEVELAND and married his daughter ALEY MATHIS CLEVELAND and had 8 children, the youngest of whom was JESSE FRANKLIN JONES, named for GOV. JESSE FRANKLIN of North Carolina, whose wife was a Cleveland; JESSE F. JONES, also married a Cleveland daughter.

COFFEE FAMILY LIVED AROUND WAR-E IN BEDFORD COUNTY

WARTRACE was an "old stomping ground" in BEDFORD COUNTY, and was the second largest town in BEDFORD COUNTY. The land on which the town was located had been owned by RICE COFFEE and HENRY B. COFFEE, evidently brothers.

ALEXANDER H. COFFEE, will August 1st, 1863 "now in JACKSON COUNTY, ALABAMA" but "home in BEDFORD COUNTY, Tennessee". Copied from the records of BEDFORD COUNTY, dated August 1, 1863. He mentions:

"My grandson AVERY LOVELADY, son of Pleasant and Mary E. Lovelady, formerly Mary E. Coffee"
"My son RICE A. COFFEE"
"My son Waightstill Avery Coffee"
Witnesses: John.R. Coffee
B. B Coffee"

The RICE COFFEE (son of the Alexander of the above will) was a younger RICE COFFEE. There was an older one of the name, who wrote the following letter in 1844, to JEFFERSON COFFEE, whose sister AMETICA COFFEE married Samuel Lusk, who went to Texas and settled in the early days. The letter throws more light on the COFFEE FAMILY. of BEDFORD COUNTY:

--

SHELBYVILLE, TENN.
November 15, 1844.

Dear Jefferson:

I received your letter of the 16 of September and have read it with entertaining interest. Indeed, it is always a source of gratification to me to hear that my friends are doing well.

You request some information respecting the history of our ancestors. I have no written biography of the COFFEE FAMILY and therefore can only relate to you such facts as have come within my own recollection and such as have reached me by tradition.

I remember to have seen my paternal grandfather. His name was JOHN COFFEE, and he was raised in one of the lower counties of VIRGINIA and died in ALBEMARLE. My grandmother's maiden name was JANE GRAVES, and my father's name was JAMES COFFEE. He also was raised in the lower part of VIRGINIA and from thence removed to ESSEX and from thence to ALBEMARLE, where your father AMBROSE COFFEE was born in the year 1762. From this county my father (James) removed to AMHERST and here his children grew up to manhood. My mother's maiden name was ELIZABETH CLEVELAND. My maternal grandfather's name was ALEXANDER CLEVELAND. He was a descendant of the English and was an own cousin of OLIVER CROMWELL, a gentleman who figured conspicuously in the sirteenth century. He was raised in VIRGINIA & born in the year 1663 and died in 1775, at the age of 112 years.

My father was born in 1729 and died in 1786. His children were nine sons and two daughters. My brothers' names were JOHN, ARCHELAUS, JAMES, REUBEN, AMBROSE, ELI, JOEL and LEWIS Coffee. They are all dead save ELI and LEWIS, the first of whom resides in MISSOURI and the other in KENTUCKY.

I became acquainted with your maternal grandfather JESSE MOORE about the close of the revolutionary war. He then lived in BURKE COUNTY, North Carolina, where you were born. He was born in VIRGINIA, and many of his descendants now live in KENTUCKY.

I am still living at the same place you last saw me, but cannot expect, in the course of nature to remain much longer. I am now in my 80th year.

May God bless you.

RICE COFFEE.

Dear Vikki:

I just got the very valuable data on your line of Clevelands. You did a great job and a lot of people will be grateful for preserving part of their heritage. I surely do like the way you laid out the information.

Hope the printout has arrived by now and that you will find it useful.

I don't know whether I made my connection with the Clevelands clear but it works this way: my father was Frank Welch, his mother Susan King, her mother Sarah Elizabeth Hooper, her father Joseph Hooper, his father John Cleveland Hooper, his mother Phoebe Cleveland, her father John Cleveland, his father John Cleveland who married Elizabeth Coffey.

Stay in touch and keep up the good work.

Your old Cleveland cousin,

June Rayfield Welch

Dear Vikki,

Thanks for you letter and the information you sent on the Cleveland Family - Yes I would be interested in exchanging information with you - I am discended from Elizabeth Cleveland (Ca 1726 - Ca 1826) who married Ca 1750 James Coffey - The best source of information on her is Marvin D. Coffey of Ashland, Oregon - I am enclosing a copy of Chapter 6 of his book - I really can't add much to her info on Cleveland, but can add a great deal to his Coffey info, especially concerning my line -

I descent from two of the children of James & Elizabeth -
1- James Coffey Jr (1757-1794) who married Mary Moore -
2- Martha Coffey (Ca 1758 - Ca 1826) who married Martin Durham -

If you are interested in more on this line just let me know -

Sincerely
Mike

Dear Cousin Vikki Lyn,

Sorry I have taken so long to answer your letter. We have been on a trip to Arkansas and Mississippi visiting with CLEVELAND, etc relatives and of course looking for genealogical data. You might like to know that there will be a CLEAVELAND/CLEVELAND family reunion at the Rock Branch Baptist Church in Union, MS on the Labor Day week-end. I will not be attending, but if you would like more info let me know.

As I understand it, you have a book out? How much are you asking? I am not of the same option as George A. Martin, in believing that a Roger and Dorcas were the progenitors of our CLEVELAND line. For one thing I have not seen any positive proof. Also there is not to my knowledge one descendent who carried the names Roger or Dorcas. I have done some research in London and the Moses and Margaret seems the most likely ancestors according to all the records (and they are extensive) that I have encountered on the CLEVELANDS. We are all looking for the truth, but as Dr. Julian D. Kelly, Jr. of Savannah, GA said in Family Puzzlers, "Until conflicting records can be found, one will have to accept this circumstantial evidence". I always kinda put my CLEVELAND line on the shelve and worked on my other lines first, because I thought, there are so many records, I'd have no trouble. I was wrong.

If we are to believe "The Genesis of the White Family", I don't recall who wrote it at this time, and not believe "Our Kin" by Ackerly & Parker, then there is another generation between our Peter WHITE and Sir Thomas.

I have enclosed some pages of my ancestor chart and a couple family records. I have so much data to get into my computer so some of my records are incomplete.

Hoping to hear from you soon. With warmest regards,

Grace

John Cleveland (1770)

The Cleveland-Kidd Family Bible which was bought at the Estate sale of John Cleveland in 1828 in Elbert County, GA by oldest son, James Mimms Cleveland for his youngest sister Martha Lee, is now in the possession (1990) of Mr. Amos M. Teasley Jr., P.O. Box 970, Hartwell, GA., 30643, s/o Amos Milton Teasley Sr. and Eliza King Teasley, who was s/o William Hailey Teasley and Julia Jane Ann Wanslow, d/o St. Wiley Tandy Wanslow and Martha Lee Cleveland Wanslow. The Bible was bought for $4.00.
Mr. Teasley who is my 3rd cousin 1 time removed, was kind enough to send me copies of the Births, Marriages and Deaths in the Bible, which was printed and published in Philadelphia, PA., by M. Carey & Son, 126 Chestnut Street in 1821.
I was told of the present location of the Bible by Mrs. Elizabeth Myres, 417 West Howell Street, Hartwell, GA., 30643, another cousin, after I published a query in the Savannah River Genealogical Society Newsletter in Hartwell, GA.

Dear Vikki Lyn,

We're sending you most of what we have of the Alexander Cleveland line. Unfortunately, our immediate line, (Manson Hugh Cleveland and descendants) doesn't seem to want to print out. We'll track the problem down and get this to you later if you would like to have it.

What we are interested in is something on Thomas Anderson Cleveland and his second wife, Rhoda (Holland) Cleveland. If you have any information on this, we sure could use it. In the meantime, we hope that what we have sent you will be of some use.

Thanks for taking out time to write to us. We can tell from your letter that you've been very busy on your own genealogy work.

Sincerely,
Hugh Cleveland and

Genealogy of the Cleveland family starting with Alexander (1)
(compiled by Manson Hugh Cleveland)

A Mr. Premiss Glazier made a trip to England seeking common ancestors. In the church records of St. Stephens in Ipswitch, County Norfolk, he found the baptismal record of Moses Cleveland entered as having occured on 2 Feb. 1621, the son of Isaac and Alice Cleveland. Also recorded were the christening records of two brothers: Aaron, 1 May 1623, who died and was buried on 7 April 1627, and Enoch, baptised 8 May 1625. According to the records of this same church, Isaac and Alice Cleveland both died in 1626, leaving 6 children to the church of the Parish. (the above was sent to me in a letter from Alice A. Whitbeck 23 Sept. 1983)

The following information is from three volumes Cleveland Genealogy printed in 1899 and other searchers:

Alexander Cleveland was probably born in England prior to 1620. His father and mother were believed to be Isaac and Alice Cleveland. Alexander and Moses Cleveland were the first to come to America before 1629. (This date would have to be wrong if the dates from the church in England were right.) Alexander and Moses are believed to have come to Virginia from England with the Skipworths of Cotes and Henry Herrick, prior to 1629. Alexander settled in Virginia on Bull Run in Prince William County. Moses settled in Woburn, Mass. I have no record of Alexander's marriage but he had one son.

 Alexander Cleveland born ca 1659 probably in Virginia, and died in 1770; married Milly Presley who was born about 1667 and died in 1770. The couple moved to Blue Run in Orange Co. Virginia in 1734, some 6 or 8 miles above the junction with the Rapidan in Orange Co near the line of Albemarle. He and his wife died there within 3 days of each other. He was 111 and she was 103.

(A) John Cleveland, born about 1695 or 1700, married Martha Coffee (records show different spellings) probably in Virginia. She lived to a ripe old age and died at her home on Blue Run; John died on his estate on Blue Run 6 or 8 miles above the junction with the Rapidan, Va. at a ripe old age. There were at least seven children, maybe more, as follows

(B) Alexander Cleveland born about 1698-1710. John and Alexander were deeded land in Orange Co. in 1734, according to one account, he married Mildred Presley, could have been married twice the second to Doolittle of Irish descent. Three of his daughters died before 1839; records show 8 children:

(C) Jeremiah Cleveland, grandson of Alexander (2) born about 1700 or 1712, married Sally Vannoy ?, they had 8 children? Jeremiah lived with his parents on Bull Run, Va.

(D) (?)Micajah Cleveland (conjunctured to be a son of Alexander Cleveland) born about 1702-1712. Name of his wife not known she died probably in Tenn. about 1800. He married 2nd time.

(E) Elizabeth Cleveland born about 1704-1716. Married Rev. James Coffey, a Baptist Clergyman they went early to N.C. He was probably a brother to Martha Coffey, wife of John Cleveland. Elizabeth lived in Prince William Co., Va.

(F) William Cleveland born about the year 1716, Died in or near Loudoun Co., Va. between Oct. 17, 1787 and May 29, 1788, M

Dear Vicki (I'll learn!)

Here's the printout on our immediate family tree - I haven't proofed it, and I know we're missing Ryan Lewis's middle name, but my uncle entered most of the info so it should be pretty clean.

Enjoy!

Dear Vikki:

I tried to call you Saturday and learned you have an unlisted number.

Congratulations on planning to print a booklet. So many of us never put anything down in a manner that's recognizable to the rest of the family. I would like to have a copy when you get it done, and I'm also interested in what the S. Carolina librarian is working on.

The South Carolina Clevelands have been written up in many books about their battles in the Revolution.

The book you need most to work on (and your letter doesn't sound to me as if you have seen it) is the Cleveland genealogy which was printed in 1899 and is about 2,000 pages long. I've never seen one, but some people have sent me some pages from the book, and I'm sending copies to you. This book can be found in the Illinois State Historical Library at Springfield. You can't check it out, of course, but it would be worth a trip up there for you.

The Family Associations at Utah send me the information on the earlier Alexander Clevelands, dating all the way back to 1579. They said this information came from the Mormon Archives, so I made rough family group sheets from their information.

As nearly as I can determine, our first common ancestor is Alexander Cleveland who m. Milly Presley. You are descended from their son, Jeremiah, and I'm descended from their son, Micajah.

I've only worked on the descendants of Micajah, and I presume you are not interested in that. If you are, I'd be glad to share what little I have. I'm strictly an amateur at this.

Yes, the number of Jeremiahs in the family makes it confusing. I have the same problem with Micajah and John.

I live a couple of blocks from the Van Horns. Earl has gone down so since the deaths in their family. He doesn't walk without assistance now, and someone stays with him around the clock. It has been hard on Betty to have lost her mother and brother, then have her father get in such a shape so soon.

Good luck to you in your research, and I hope what I'm sending will be helpful. My phone is 966-3744, and/or I'd be glad to answer letters.

Sincerely,

Charlene

ENCLOSED TITLE PAGE WITH INDEX ON BACK: I search Virginia Records I have in search of something to add but other than what you have I do not think I could provide any new light.

Exception...years ago Cleveland Lineage was sent to me from the Coffee Book. Subsequently I bought the book and do not have any use for the material.
Mr. Coffey seems to have done an in depth research in VA. Records and what documenation could be provided.

I know there has been controversy over the Cleveland line. I have collected bits of information in relationship to the Coffey line but have never gone in depth in research. But every new book I receive I look for my lines. I have a number of books on VA. not listed on brochure that I have checked. Nothing in the Virginia Genealogies.

Maybe this will shed some light on Cleveland lines, if it does would like to hear from you.

ENCLOSED BROCHURE WITH REFERENCES TO BOOKS THAT I HAVE IN MY OWN LIBRARY FOR RESEARCH. IF I CAN BE OF ANY HELP ON THESE BOOKS LISTED, PLEASE LET ME KNOW.

GOOD LUCK IN YOUR RESEARCH:

Dear Vikki:

I am interested in your entry under Ancestor Name List, Number 40369 in The Genealogical Helper (Nov-Dec 1990, p.209):

"Alexander Cleveland R1687 Cloucester VA"

Please refer to the enclosed copies of my Pedigree Charts A & D and note that my ggggg grandfather Alexander Cleveland was baptized 31 July 1687 at Gloucester County, Virginia whereas your Alexander resided there in 1687. Should your records indicate that he was maried to Mary Polly Presley about 1711 and died about 1776 in Albemarle County, Virginia, we may have the same Alexander Cleveland.

Should you wish to correspond further, I can provide you with copies of my Family Group Sheets of James Coffey, Reuben Coffey, Charles Oliver Coffey on down to my own. As you can see, I only have reference to Alexander's father Roger Cleveland, his mother Dorcas (?) and nothing earlier. Obviously, I am therefore anxious to extend my Cleveland line to earlier generations.

Yours very truly,

SUSANA CLEVELAND ISBELL

The parents of Susana Cleveland, wife of Pendleton Isbell, were Jeremiah and Obedient Callaway Cleveland. A book, The Cleveland Family by James Edmund Cleveland and Horace Gillette Cleveland was published in 1899 in three volumes. Our line of Isbells is in Volume III. Two Cleveland families are traced- Moses who came to America from England and settled in Massachusetts and Alexander who came from England to America and settled in Virginia. Here is our line:

1. Alexander Cleveland b. ca 1620 in England,. no record of his wife's name or if he came to America for sure. Had at least one son:

2. Alexander b. ca 1659 in England or Virginia, died about 1770 at home of son John on Blue Run in Orange Co.,Va., at age 111 (within 3 days of death of wife). Married perhaps Milly Presley b. ca 1667 who died in 1770 at age 103.

3. John b. ca 1697-1700 married a Coffee. (the 1899 book says Martha. Other records say Elizabeth.) John born in Prince William Co., Virginia, died In Oragge Co.,Va.

4. John b. 1730 in Va. or N.C. (a Baptist clergyman) went from Virginia to N.C. with his brothers Benjamin and Larkin and other brothers and brother-in-law. John 1730 and Larkin 1748 were the first settlers in Pickens District, S.C.. John preached in Chauga Church in Oconee County, S.C.. He died Cleveland's Ferry, Tugaloo River, S.C., about 1821 at age about 91. He married Mollie McCan who died before 1809. A daughter Elizabeth married Benjamin Harrison (John 1730 was living with them at his death).

5. Jeremiah b. 1746 married Obedient Callaway. Both died in Pickens District, S.C..(Obedient was a daughter of Francis Callaway, Jr.and Sarah Brewer of North Carolina. Her brother , Francis,III wrote his Autobiography which was published in the Callaway Family Journal in 1981 submitted by Miss Detta Lee Cole, Washington,D.C. - F.Isbell.)

6. Susana b. Feb. 16, 1806, S.C. died Dec. 1, 1888. Buried Pankey Cemetery, Grimes County, Texas. Married Pendleton Isbell b. April 15, 1806 S.C. d. Nov. 30, 1873 bur. Shiloh Cemetery, Floyd Co.,Ga.. They were the parents of 15 children .

7. William Levingston Isbell ,first child of Pendleton and Susana, was born April 10, 1825 in Pickens County,S.C.. He was married on October 17, 1842 to Phebe Creel in Newton County, Ga.. Both Wm. L. and Phebe died in Texas,buried in Grimes Co., Pankey Cemetery.

Dear Ms. Cleveland:

I received your letter several days ago and was glad to get it. I am a descendant of Martha Harbin and Hugh L. O'Kelley. I am enclosing family group sheets on my Cleveland ancestors.

I wonder if you have any information on the parents of Millie Pressley and Joseph Graves, the father of Mary Graves who married Benjamin Cleveland. If you have any information that you think will help me I would appreciate very much your sending it to me.

Sincerely,

Helen

Dear Vikki,

My search for Benjamin Cleveland is a long shot. All I know is enclosed. You must be related to John & Martha (Coffee) Cleveland.

"Joshua Stapp, son of Abraham Stepp, was born ca 1688, died just prior to March 27,1783. His wife was Martha Coffey, born ac 1690, died ca 1772. She was the daughter of Edward and Ann ( ) Coffee of Essex County, Virginia."

"John Stapp/Stepp eldest son of Joshua Stapp, Sr and Martha Coffey Stapp, was born ca 1710/1711, died just prior to May 21, 1761, in Culpepper Co, leaving a widow and five orphans."

"John Stapp/Stepp Jr. 1st child was Celia Stapp, born Oct 29, 1772, NC, died April 29, 1855." These are from The Stepp Family Chronicles by William W. Stepp. This book has no index.

Samuel Franklin Bunyard & Elizabeth (Holt) Bunyard named a daughter Celia / Selia Stepp Bunyard. They just all seem to be related or close friends.

Enclosed is the Cleveland, Franklin, Graves, Bunyard connection. I would certainly appreciate any thoughts you might have on these families.

LEAVES FROM THE FAMILY TREE . . . CLEVELAND

"MY BRAVE fellows, we have beat the tories, and we can beat them. They are all cowards. If they had the spirit of men, they would join with their fellow-citizens in supporting the independence of their country."

Thus Col. Ben Cleveland addressed his men as they entered the Battle of King's Mountain, and the doughty old frontiersman continued: "When engaged you are not to wait for the word of command from me. I will show you by my example how to fight. I can undertake no more. Every man must consider himself as an officer and act from his own judgment. Fire as quick as you can and stand your guard as long as you can. When you can do no better, get behind trees or retreat; but I beg of you, do not run quite off. If we are repulsed, let us make a point to return and renew the fight. Perhaps we may have better luck in the second attempt than the first. If any of you are afraid, such have leave to retire, and they are requested immediately to take themselves off."

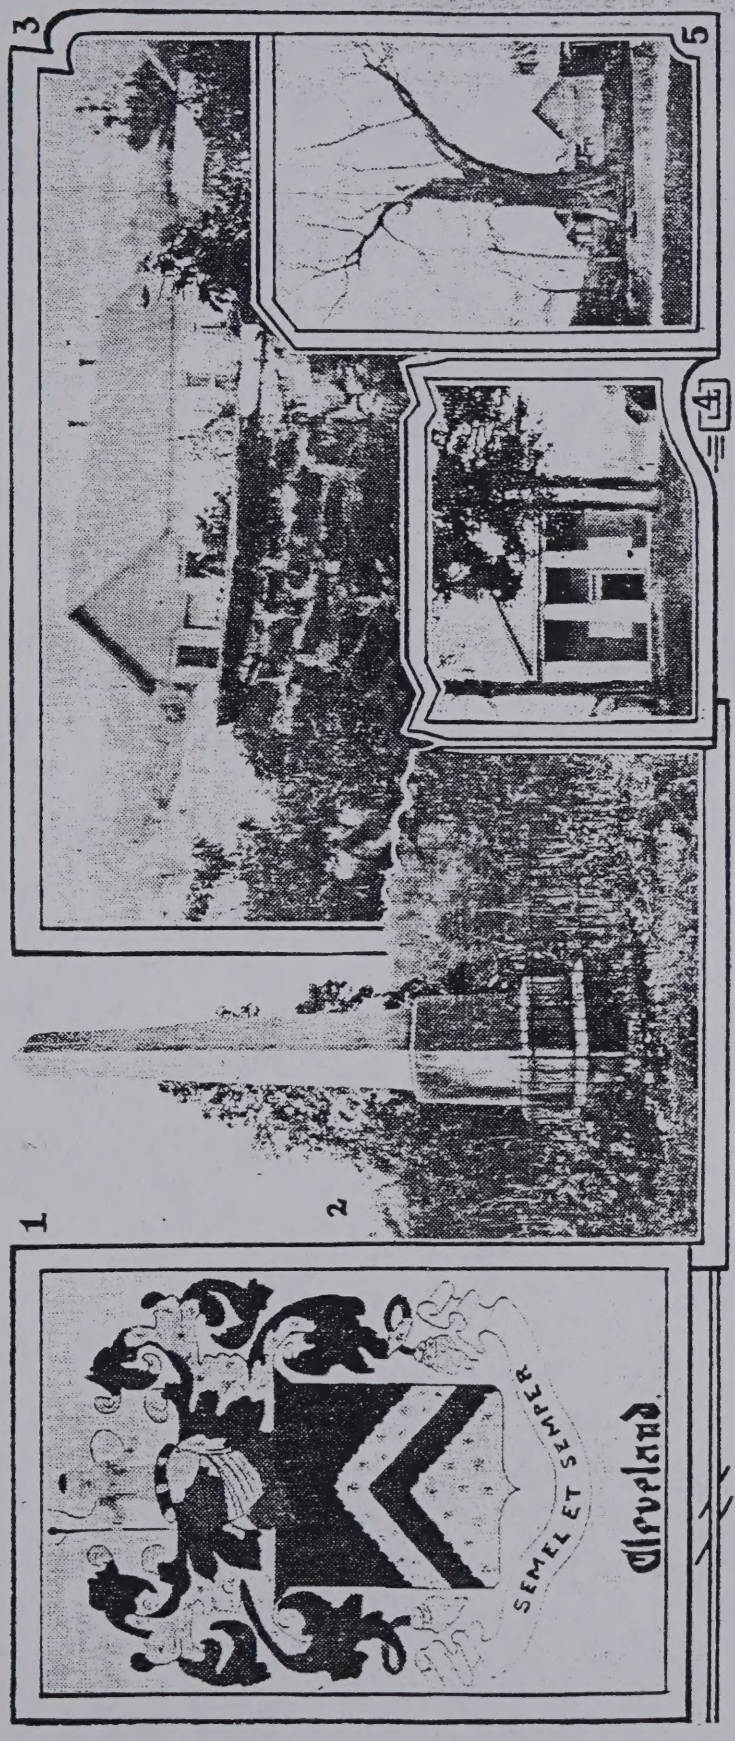
The firing commenced, and the Americans, animated with the enthusiasm of liberty, won a great victory. It is said that one whole company of Wilkes county, North Carolina, militia which participated in this battle was composed of Col. Cleveland's near kinsmen. His regiment was known far and wide as "Cleveland's Bulldogs," and they did good service in the cause of American independence.

Col. Cleveland led the North Carolina forces in the Battle of King's Mountain and his long and arduous military career entitles him to a place as one of the heroes of the Revolution. A county in North Carolina was named in his honor and many towns have paid him a similar tribute.

Family Scattered.

THE Cleveland family to which Col. Benjamin Cleveland belonged is widely scattered over the south, and many of its members have distinguished themselves in the service of the state and church.

The first Cleveland of which we have record is Torkil and his son,



(1) Cleveland coat of arms. Arms—Per chevron sable and ermine, a chevron engrailed counter-changed. Crest—A demi-old man habited azure, on head a cap gules, turned up with hair front, holding in hand a spear, headed argent, on top of which is a hue ppr. passing behind him and coiled up in sinister hand. Motto—Semel et Semper. (2) Monument erected to memory of Col. Ben Cleveland, near Madison, S. C., in Oconee county, 1887. Inscription: "Erected by the members of the Cleveland family in South Carolina, Georgia and Tennessee in honor of Col. Benjamin Cleveland, a hero of the Revolution for American independence and one of the commanders of the Battle of King's Mountain, North Carolina. 1738-1806."
(3) Grave of Elizabeth Cleveland, wife of Col. Ben Cleveland, on Old Cleveland Plantation on Tugaloo River, in Oconee County, South Carolina. Col. Cleveland is said to have been buried by her side, but no monument marks his resting place. The masonry over this grave is said to be the work of Col. Cleveland's own hands. Elizabeth Graves Cleveland died in 1800. (4) Baptist church, Wilkesboro, N. C. Old Mulberry Fields Baptist church, built in the '40s. (5) Cleveland oak, Wilkesboro, N. C. The tree on which Col. Ben Cleveland hanged the Tories.

Uctred, who was Earl of York in 1066. They are credited with building the great Whitby abbey and are buried there under the front bay window.

The Clevelands were an ancient English family and derived their name from a tract of land in the North Riding of Yorkshire, which is still called Cleveland.

The emigrant ancestor of the southern branch of the Cleveland family was Alexander Cleveland, who came to Virginia about the year 1760. His wife is said to have been a Miss McMinn. They settled in Prince William county, on the since famous Bull Run creek, and were the parents of a large family of children. The family later removed to Blue Run, in Orange county, where Alexander Cleveland died in 1775, aged 112 years. His wife died within three days of her husband, aged 100 years.

Alexander Cleveland is known to have had the following children, and there were probably some other daughters of whom we have no record: (1) John Cleveland, (2) Alexander Cleveland, Jr., (3) Jeremian Cleveland (4) Jacob Cleveland, (5) William Cleveland and (6) Elizabeth Cleveland, who married James Coffey.

John Cleveland.

JOHN CLEVELAND, the son of Alexander Cleveland, was born about 1700, and grew up on Bull Run, in Prince William county, Virginia. He married Martha Coffey, daughter of John and Jane (Graves) Coffey, and his oldest son, Col. Benjamin Cleveland, was born on Bull Run May 26, 1738. His children, as named in his will, which was made Nov. 1, 1778, and proven Nov. 26, 1778, in Orange county, Virginia (Will Book 3, page 1), were Mary Franklin, Benjamin Cleveland, John Cleveland (known as the Rev. John to distinguish him from others of the same name), Betty Claspey, Robert Cleveland, Reubin Cleveland, Jeremiah Cleveland and Patty (Martha) Smith.

Shortly after the birth of his oldest son John Cleveland moved with his family to Orange county, Virginia, and lived on Blue Run, where several of his younger children were born. His aged father and mother died at his house, and here his sister, Elizabeth, who was called Betsy, married James Coffey, his wife's brother.

John Cleveland willed to his daughter, Patty Smith, "the land whereon I now live, as long as she lives thereon, if she should move, said land to be sold and the money divided between her two children, Betty and Austin Smith." The marriage records of Orange county show that Patty Cleveland married James Smith Nov. 9, 1775.

Mary Cleveland Franklin.

MARY CLEVELAND, oldest child of John and Martha (Coffey) Cleveland, married Bernard Franklin, of Orange county, Virginia. They were the parents of seven sons and several daughters, among whom were Bernard, Jeremiah and Jesse Franklin, who was governor of North Carolina in 1820.

In writing of this family, J. T. Alderman says in the North Carolina Booklet, Vol. 6, page 185 (1906): "Attracted by the excellent range and fertile valley of Piedmont North Carolina, a large number of people had before the Revolution left their Virginia homes and moved to occupy the unbroken forest. Among them was Col. Ben Cleveland, a brother of Jesse Franklin's mother."

"Before the Revolution, Bernard Franklin had determined to go to North Carolina, as many of his neighbors and friends had done. In the summer of 1778 he sent his son, Jesse, who was then at home from the army, to select a suitable place for the family to occupy. He chose for their future home a beautiful valley near the head waters of Mitchell's river. The two older boys, Bernard and Jeremiah, remained in Virginia."

In the fall of 1778 Bernard Franklin with his wife and four sons and two daughters, the oldest of the children being under 15 years of age, moved to their new home in Surry county, North Carolina.

Bernard (called Berner) Franklin, Jr., oldest son of Bernard and Mary (Cleveland) Franklin, married his cousin, Martha or Patsy Cleveland, born June 9, 1764, daughter of Alexander Cleveland, Jr., and Margaret (Doolittle) Cleveland, of Albemarle county, Virginia. They moved to Kentucky and have descendants there.

Jesse Franklin, third son of Bernard and Mary (Cleveland) Franklin, was born in Orange county, Virginia, March 24, 1760. In 1777 he volunteered in the continental service and held a commission as lieutenant in Gen. Washington's army. After the removal of the Franklin family to North Carolina, Jesse Franklin served with distinction as adjutant of Col. Cleveland's regiment. It was he who received the sword of the British officer, Capt. Ryerson, at the close of the Battle of King's Mountain. Later he was in the state legislature, United States senator and, in 1820, governor of North Carolina.

At the close of the Revolution, Jesse Franklin settled in Wilkes county, North Carolina, and in 1793 moved to Surry county, where he remained the rest of his life. He married Miss Meeky Perkins, born 1765, died Feb. 20, 1834, daughter of Hardin Perkins. Jesse Franklin died in 1823.

Col. Ben Cleveland.

BENJAMIN CLEVELAND, second child of John and Martha (Coffey) Cleveland, was born May 26, 1738, in Prince Edward county, Virginia. His was a full and eventful life and many interesting accounts are told of his adventures on the frontier. In 1772, with a few companions, he made a hunting and exploring trip into Kentucky.

Those interested in a full account of his exploits are referred to "King's Mountain and Its Heroes," by Lyman G. Draper, Chapter 19.

He married Mary Graves in Orange county, Virginia, the daughter of Joseph Graves, who later moved to Surry county, North Carolina, where he died in 1774. The will of Joseph Graves mentions "Absolem Cleveland and John Cleveland, sons of my beloved daughter, Mary Cleveland, when they reach the age of 21 years." Benjamin Cleveland, husband of his daughter, Mary, is named as one of the executors of the will.

About 1769, Benjamin Cleveland removed with his father-in-law and family to North Carolina, and settled near the Blue ridge, on the waters of Roaring creek, a northern branch of the Yadkin, in what was then Rowan, afterwards Surry, and a few years later Wilkes county. In 1779, he received a grant for 348 acres—the noted Round About plantation which was located on the north side of the Yadkin river, fifteen miles below Wilkesboro. The place takes its name from the horseshoe shape of the land which is nearly surrounded by the river.

Benjamin Cleveland served as captain of a company in Gen. Rutherford's campaign against the Cherokees in 1776. He was instrumental in the creation of Wilkes county out of Surry in 1777, and was named as one of the justices of the court and colonel of the county militia. Throughout the Revolution, he was an intrepid fighter and never ceased in his efforts to punish the tories of his section.

On the public square of Wilkesboro there still stands a venerable old tree, known as the "Cleveland oak," which is the special ward of the county. On this tree Col. Cleveland ordered the hanging of the tories who were plundering and murdering in the neighborhood.

At the close of the Revolution, Col. Cleveland moved to the Tugalo valley, on the western frontier of what was then the old Pendleton district, of South Carolina. He selected for his new home a choice body of land in the fork between the Tugulo river and Chauga creek, in what is now Oconee county, South Carolina, and there he lived until his death in October, 1806. His wife died in 1800. They are buried in a family graveyard on the plantation. Col. Cleveland served many years as judge of the court of old Pendleton district.

Benjamin and Mary (Graves) Cleveland were the parents of three children, Absalom Cleveland, who married Patty Harrison; John Cleveland (known as "Devil John"), and Jemima Cleveland, who married James Wiley, of Iredell county, North Carolina.

On July 28, 1887, a marble shaft to the memory of Col. Benjamin Cleveland was unveiled at the site of old Fort Madison, near his home in Oconee county, South Carolina. This monument was erected by members of the Cleveland family and bears the following inscription:

"Erected by members of the Cleveland family in South Carolina, Georgia and Tennessee, in honor of Col. Benjamin Cleveland, a hero of the Revolution for American independence, and one of the commanders of the Battle of King's Mountain, North Carolina. 1738-1806."

East Tennessee Family Traces Back to Hero of Revolution.

Part II.

THE Cleveland family in East Tennessee is descended from Capt. Robert Cleveland, the fifth child of John Cleveland and Martha (Coffey) Cleveland, of Orange county, Virginia, and his conspicuous service during the Revolution has gained for him a high place in the history of that period.

Robert Cleveland is mentioned in the will of his father, John Cleveland, which was made Nov. 1, 1778, and admitted to probate Nov. 26, 1778, in Orange county, Virginia. (Will book 3, page 1.) He was born in 1744 in Orange county, Virginia, and died April 26, 1812, in Wilkes county, North Carolina.

Robert Cleveland joined in the migration with his kindred and removed from Orange county, Virginia, to western North Carolina before the Revolution. In 1787 he received a state grant in Wilkes county, North Carolina, for 150 acres of land, which is recorded in the deed records of Wilkes county, Volume A, page 183. His home was at Lewis' Fork, where his grandson, Jesse Yates, was living in 1881.

He was captain of a company of Wilkes county militia which did valiant service in the regiment commanded by his brother, Col. Benjamin Cleveland, during the Revolution, and was in the Battle of King's Mountain. He was one of the North Carolina electors on the Jefferson ticket for president.

Capt. Robert Cleveland was twice married. His first wife was Aley Mathis. His second wife, who survived him, was Sarah ———. The will of Capt. Robert Cleveland is on record in Wilkes county, North Carolina (wills book 3, page 35), and mentions his wife, Sally; sons, Pressly, Harvey, Larkin Jeremiah and Eli, and granddaughter, Patty Cleveland; proven August term, 1812. While only five of his children are named in the will, Capt. Robert Cleveland is said to have had fifteen or sixteen children.

Presley Cleveland.

(1) Presley Cleveland, son of Robert and Aley (Mathis) Cleveland, was born in Wilkes county, North Carolina, Sept. 14, 1779; died in Sweetwater valley, Monroe county, Tennessee, May 31, 1861. He married Elizabeth Johnson, born Feb. 17, 1792; died Nov. 20, 1864. He was one of the pioneer settlers of Monroe county and was a successful farmer in the beautiful Sweetwater valley.

The children of Presley and Elizabeth (Johnson) Cleveland were (1) Robert, (2) Aley, (3) William, (4) Eliza Ann, (5) Larkin, (6) Caroline, (7) Harvey H.

(1) Robert Cleveland, son of Presley and Elizabeth (Johnson) Cleveland, married June 4, 1840, Elizabeth Snead, daughter of Robert Snead. They moved to Bradley county, Tennessee, where he died in 1854. His widow returned to Sweetwater valley and made her home near Robert Snead. She died July 27, 1875, and is buried in the old Sweetwater cemetery.

Their children were William Cleveland, born April 9, 1843; died Feb. 10, 1902; lived near Sweetwater, Tenn.; married June 24, 1867, Mary P. Browder. Had several children. Presley Cleveland, born Jan. 26, 1845, in Bradley county, Tennessee; married Belle Bryant, of McMinn county, Tennessee, moved to Gentry county, Missouri. Issue, six children. Mary E. Cleveland married Dec. 28, 1865, Horace F. Patton, of Monroe county, Tennessee. Robert Cleveland born 1852; married Georgetta Martin, settled at Blue Spring, Tennessee.

(4) Eliza Ann, daughter of Presley and Elizabeth (Johnson) Cleveland, married William E. Johnson and lived on Pond creek, Monroe county, Tennessee. Issue, four children.

(5) Larkin Cleveland, son of Presley and Elizabeth (Johnson) Cleveland, was born in 1825; married Minerva Parker; had issue a large family, several of whom moved west; among his children were Nannie, who married John Rausin and moved to Oregon; Alfred, moved to Missouri; Cordie and Eliza.

(6) Caroline Cleveland, daughter of Presley and Elizabeth (Johnson) Cleveland, married Oct. 24, 1859, Samuel Jesse Martin, who was reared by Elder Eli Cleveland. He was the first layman to be moderator of the Sweetwater Baptist association and was elected in November, 1872, representative from Monroe and Loudon counties to the Thirty-eighth general assembly of Tennessee. They had issue: Sallie Martin, born July 15, 1861, who married Pryor Shultz, of Niota, Tenn.; Carrie Bell Martin, who married George Cline, of Knoxville; Samuel Martin, born Oct. 22, 1862, married Amanda Patton and had issue ten children.

(7) Harvey H. Cleveland, son of Presley and Elizabeth (Johnson) Cleveland, married March, 1854, Mary Ann, daughter of John and Alpha Cleveland, married March, 1854, Mary Pennington. Harvey H. Cleveland died Sept. 25, 1854.

Eli Cleveland.

Eli Cleveland, son of Capt. Robert and Aley (Mathis) Cleveland, was born in Wilkes county, North Carolina, Oct. 1, 1781; died at his home near Philadelphia, Monroe county, Tennessee, Nov. 23, 1859. He married Polly Ragon, Dec. 28, 1803.

Rev. Eli Cleveland One of Most Noted Pioneer Ministers.

Eli Cleveland was one of the noted preachers of the Baptist church and has a high place in the religious annals of East Tennessee. He was baptized on the third Sabbath in December, 1913, and united with the Baptist church in Ashe county, North Carolina. Soon afterward he began exorting and preaching, and the rest of his life was devoted to Christian ministry.

He moved to Knox county, Tennessee, in 1817, and as soon as the Hiwassee purchase was opened for settlement, bought several extensive tracts of land in what is now Monroe county, Tennessee, where he located in Sweetwater valley, near the present town of Philadelphia.

Eli Cleveland was ordained in 1818 by the request of the Beaver Ridge Baptist church. In January, 1822, he united with the Sweetwater church and was soon chosen moderator, "an office he was eminently qualified to fill and which he retained until his death." This being a newly settled country, he preached much and was instrumental in building up and establishing a number of churches. His motto was "Born a sinner, but saved by grace."

This worthy patriarch made a deed of gift in perpetuity to the parcel of land on which the Baptist church of Sweetwater is situated, and the gift of a cemetery lot for a neighborhood burial place. With his own means, Elder Cleveland built the beautiful old brick church for his congregation, which still stands in Sweetwater, and gave it to his congregation.

Eli Cleveland and his wife Polly (Ragon) Cleveland, had issue of eight children:

(1) Robert Cleveland, born Sept. 5, 1803; died April, 1868; married, Jan. 20, 1835, Sidney G. Nelson, of Philadelphia, Tenn., born July 15, 1811; died Oct. 3, 1884. They had one daughter, Clemintina, who married Dr. Franklin K. Berry.

(2) Matilda Cleveland married John Chestnutt and lived at Ooltewah, Tenn. They had no children.

(3) Caroline Cleveland married March 1, 1838, Joseph Walker; no issue.

(4) Jesse Cleveland married Miss Spriggs, of Bradley county, Tennessee, and settled on Candy's creek, in that county.

(5) Eli Cleveland, born 1827; died at Ooltewah, Tenn., after the War Between the States; married Emeline Pennington. They had six daughters and two sons.

(6) Aley Mathis Cleveland, born May 7, 1813; died May 30, 1865; married J. D. Jones, of Monroe county, Tennessee.

(7) Clarissa Cleveland, born Sept. 6, 1815; died March 11, 1880; married Jesse F. Jones, of Monroe county, Tennessee.

(8) David H. Cleveland, born Nov. 5, 1824; died Aug. 10, 1900; married, first, July 11, 1844, his cousin, Elizabeth A. Johnson, born Jan. 5, 1827; died Dec. 31, 1882. They lived at the family homestead of Elder Eli Cleveland, near Philadelphia, Tenn., which was the property of David H. Cleveland at the time of his death.

David H. Cleveland and his first wife, Elizabeth (Johnson) Cleveland, had issue: Jesse F., born July 11, 1845, died Oct. 27, 1846; Mary Katherine, born Jan. 4, 1847; Eli, born Dec. 11, 1848; Sydney A.; Louis J., born Feb. 17, 1853, died Oct. 4, 1853; Callie, born Aug. 17, 1854; Robert Mathis, born Nov. 9, 1856; Joseph Jones, born Nov. 20, 1858; Eliza, born May 5, 1861, died Oct. 17, 1862; Aley, born Dec. 19, 1863; Viola Jassamine, born Dec. 1[illegible], 1865; Benjamin, born Dec. 4, 1867.

David H. Cleveland married as his second wife Malinda Sherman and had issue: John Sherman, Malinda Neil and Davy Grace Cleveland.

Of the foregoing, Mary Katherine Cleveland, daughter of David H. and Elizabeth (Johnson) Cleveland, was born Jan. 4, 1847; married Jan. 3 1862, Seth McKinney Walker, son of David P. Walker, who then lived at Boiling Springs, in Fork Creek valley, Monroe county, Tennessee. Later the family lived in Sweetwater, Tenn., and in 1887 moved to Sherman, Tex., where Mrs. Walker died in April, 1906. They were the parents of twelve children, among whom are:

Jennie A. Walker, who married Jan. 10, 1883, Richard J. Yearwood and resides in Knoxville. Their children are Maud Yearwood, who married April 6, 1904, John Staub Fouche, of Chattanooga; issue John Staub Fouche, Jr.; Faun Yearwood, of Knoxville, and Richard H. Yearwood, United States navy.

Alice E. Walker married Sept. 5, 1883, John Montgomery, of Knoxville; issue Helen Louise Montgomery, who married May 25, 1904, Walter B. McLean. Their daughter, Louise McLean, married Albert Craig, of Knoxville.

Lena Ula Walker married Feb. 24, 1888, John Henry Hurst, of Longview, Tex.; issue, Henry Eugene Hurst, of Dallas, Tex.; John Russell Hurst, of Longview, Tex.; Edith Isabella Hurst, who married Collie Carr Moye, of Longview, Tex.; Lewis Hurst, of Beaumont, Tex.; Juhan Hurst, of Longview, Tex.

Katherine Walker married George Blair and lives in Sherman, Tex. Their children are Jeff and Raymond Blair.

Robert Walker married and lives in Sherman, Tex.

Zeb McKinney Walker married and lives in Sherman, Tex.

Martin Cleveland.

MARTIN CLEVELAND, son of Capt. Robert Cleveland, settled near Washburn, Grainger county, Tennessee, in 1811. He was a surveyor by profession and the compass which he used in his work is still in the possession of his descendants. His wife, Mrs. Anna Cleveland, died in Grainger county in 1888.

Martin and Anna Cleveland were the parents of several children, among whom was a son, Eli Cleveland, who inherited the homestead near Washburn, Tenn. His children were Hubert Cleveland, who went to Kentucky; Martin Cleveland, who married and had Albert and Ruth Cleveland; Bessie Cleveland; Sallie Cleveland, of Washburn, Tenn.; Frank Cleveland, of Knoxville, who had Dana, Homer and Mabry Cleveland.

A daughter of Martin Cleveland married a Mr. Harris. They were the parents of J. Cleveland Harris, of Knoxville.

From time to time statements have appeared in the press regarding the naming of the town of Cleveland, county seat of Bradley county, Tennessee. I am indebted to John Morgan Wooten, historian of Bradley county, for the following information on this subject:

"The bill creating Bradley county provided that the county seat, when established, should be named Cleveland, in honor of Col. Benjamin Cleveland, a Revolutionary hero.

"The name was suggested to the legislature by the citizens of the new town. The pioneers of Bradley county, like the pioneers of other East Tennessee counties, were patriotic to the core, and they idolized the brave men who had won their independence.

"A number of the early citizens of Bradley county were from North Carolina and, doubtless, the fathers of many of them had fought by the side of Col. Cleveland. Perhaps around the fireside they had heard recited his heroic deeds and thus they wished to honor him."

Chapter II.

ALEXANDER[1] CLEVELAND OF PRINCE WILLIAM COUNTY, VIRGINIA, AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

16001.

ALEXANDER[1] CLEVELAND, the ancestor of the Clevelands of Virginia origin, was born, evidently in England, probably prior to 1620, and may have remained in England, but it is generally believed by his descendants that he came to America, and settled in or near Prince William county, Virginia; there is no record of his death, nor of his marriage; the name of his wife is unknown. Had at least one child :

+16002 Alexander[2] Cleveland, b. probably about the year 1659, either in England or, perhaps, in Virginia.

Alexander[1] Cleveland lived in England, locality not discovered. Concerning him no authentic record is found, and it is not definitely ascertained which of the two was the immigrant ancestor from England, he or his son Alexander[2]; or whether they both came in company. The early shipping lists or lists of emigrants to American ports do not mention the names of any Clevelands.

It may prove that he was the Mr. Cleveland of Loughboro, county Leicester, Eng., stated to have accompanied, prior to 1629, the Skipworths of Cotes, and Henry Herrick, 5th son of Sir William Herrick of Beau Manor Park, Loughboro parish, from England to Virginia, as already narrated in this Genealogy. (See the account of Moses[1] Cleveland + 1 of Woburn, Mass., p. 24–5). If this was Alexander[1] Cleveland, he evidently remained in Virginia while Henry Herrick journeyed to Salem, Mass., and was later a founder of the first church in Salem 1629. There are Clevelands in Virginia from old times.

So closely do the Southern Clevelands in feature resemble the New England Clevelands that they have been mistaken to be near relatives of each other, and it is not unreasonable to conjecture that Moses[1] Cleveland and Alexander[1] Cleveland were brothers, or of at least near kinship.

Oliver[4] Cleveland + 16023 of Spring Valley, Albemarle co., Va., in a letter to Hon. Jesse Franklin[6] Cleveland, May 10, 1839, said :

"My father and grandfather were both named Alexander Cleveland. My grandfather lived to be 111 years old, and my grandmother to be 103 years old. My grandfather was an Englishman by birth."

The descendants of Alexander[1] Cleveland have taken a most important part in the history of our Great Republic.

ALEXANDER[2] CLEVELAND (Alexander[1]), born, it is presumed, either in England or in Virginia, about 1659, d. at the plantation of his son, John[3] Cleveland, on Blue Run, in Orange co., Va., about 1770 (within 3 days of the death of his wife), at the age of 111 years, m. perhaps Milly Presley (see below). His wife was b. (birthplace unknown) about 1667, d. at the homestead of her son, John[3], on Blue Run, about 1770 (within 3 days of the death of her husband), at the age of 103 years. Evidently had at least the following children, b. either in England or in Virginia, perhaps in Prince William co., Va., on Bull Run:

+16003 John[3] Cleveland, b. about 1695–1700.

+16004 Alexander[3] Cleveland, b. about 1698–1710.

+16005 Jeremiah[3] Cleveland, b. about 1700–1712.

+16006 (?) Micajah[3] Cleveland (conjectured to be a son of Alexander[2]), b. about 1702–1712.

+16007 Elizabeth[3] Cleveland, b. about 1704–1716.

+16008 William[3] Cleveland, born about the year 1719, evidently was a son of Alexander[2] Cleveland.

Alexander[2] Cleveland may have been the original immigrant from England, or his father may have come, bringing him ; the notes given in the account of his father may apply to himself. In the entire absence of reliable records, there must always be a wide field for conjecture.

John Cleveland, with his father, the younger Alexander Cleveland, early migrated to Virginia. Settled on the since famous Bull Run, in Prince William co., Va. Removed [prior to 1734] some 60 miles to the southwest, locating in a border settlement on Blue Run, some six or eight miles above its junction with the Rapidan, in Orange co., near the line of Albemarle ; he and wife dying there about 1770, within three days of each other, when about 100 years.

Alexander[2] lived to be 111 years old and his wife 103 years old. Not improbably they had other children than those whose names (except that of Micajah[3]) are correctly given above, according to evidence. John[3] and Alexander[3] were deeded land in Orange co. 1734. The name of Micajah[3] is not certain, nor is it sure that he was a child of Alexander[2], but it seems very probable that he was either a son or a nephew of Alexander[3], having evidently originated in Va.

Orange co., Va., Land rec.—Alexander Cleveland (alone) deeds John Taylor, Nov. 22, 1752, 100 acres, part of a patent granted to Lawrence Franklyn for 400 acres, consid.

5 shillings; cross mark to Cleveland's name to deed. Same to same, Nov. 23, 1752, 100 acres, part of patent to same party, consid. £12. 10s. No will or settlement of estate.

William[6] Cleveland +16348 stated that his great-grandmother, or grandmother, was Milly Presley. But it is evident that she was not the wife of Alexander[3] Cleveland.

16003.

JOHN[3] CLEVELAND (Alexander[2], Alexander[1]), d. on his estate on Blue Run, 6 or 8 miles above the junction with the Rapid Ann, Va., at a good old age, m. prob. in Va., Miss Martha Coffee, she d. at her home on Blue Run, quite aged. They had the following, and perhaps other children:

+16009 JOHN[4] CLEVELAND, about the year 1730, in Virginia or North Carolina (the eldest child).

+16010 MARY[4] CLEVELAND, born —— —, 17—.

16011 DAUGHTER[4], m. Gillespie, or Gillusley of Va.

+16012 BENJAMIN[4] CLEVELAND, b. May 26, 1738, on Bull Run, in Prince William co., or Culpeper co., Va.

+16013 ROBERT[4] CLEVELAND, b. January 5, 8, or February 8, June 8, 1744, in Orange county, Virginia.

+16014 JEREMIAH[4] CLEVELAND, b. about 1746, probably in Culpeper county, Virginia.

+16015 LARKIN[4] CLEVELAND, b. April, 1748, probably in Culpeper county, Virginia.

16016 Another SON[4], name not learned.

JOHN[3] CLEVELAND, with his father, Alexander[2], were early settlers of Prince William co., but it is probable that John[3] was born and reared there. He and his parents removed, prior to 1734 or 1738, to Orange county, and located on Blue Run, where they lived and died; house joiner or builder. Large real estate owner. Records of County Court Office, Orange co. Deeds:— (About the beginning of the records) 1734, Prince Curtis conveys to JOHN CLEVELAND about 600 acres of land.

Mrs. Sarah C. Abbott writes: "My father gave me this information, that my grandfather's father [John[3]] crossed the ocean from England and settled Va.; in first settling of S. C. he came to S. C. and made that his home."

Some of his descendants think that he removed to N. C. with his children.

Martha Coffee was not improbably related to Rev. James Coffey, who m. Elizabeth[3] Cleveland. A relative of hers, Rev. A. Coffey, d. 1880, Baptist clergyman, author of History of Regular Baptist Church, pub. since 1880, with a biography of his life.

ALEXANDER[3] CLEVELAND (Alexander[2], Alexander[1]), d. about 1774–5. [He married, according to one account, Milly Presley, but he may have m. twice.] He married [so stated by his grandson, Henry Wilson[5] Cleveland] Margaret Doolittle, of Irish descent. His children had children and grandchildren. Three of his daughters d. prior to 1839. Children:

+16017 ELI[4] CLEVELAND, b. between the years 1729 and 1734, so thought.

16018 MARY[4] CLEVELAND, evidently d. prior to 1839, m. Johnson, she was prob. living Apr. 11, 1829.

16019 ANCA, or ANKEY[4] CLEVELAND, m. Wood, she was living in Amherst co., Va., 1839, had numerous descendants.

16020 MILLY[4] CLEVELAND, m. —— Henry, she was living in Ky. 1839, had numerous descendants.

+16021 ALEXANDER[4] CLEVELAND, born —— —, 17—.

16022 JOHN[4] CLEVELAND, d. evidently before 1839, was in Revolution; he and 5 brothers at Yorktown surrender. Is mentioned in his brother Eli's will Apr. 11, 1829.

+16023 OLIVER[4] CLEVELAND, b. 1748 or 1749.

16024 ANNA[4] CLEVELAND, b. 1751, d. at her s. Dillard's, in Montgomery co., Ky., Jan. 14, 1838, a. 87, m. John Hazelrigg, b. about 1754, d. July 20, 1833, a. 79. J. D. Hazelrigg writes that they settled in Clarke co., Ky., farmer. Their gr.son, Hon. Dillard[6] Donohue of Greencastle, Putnam county, Ind., is very old (1893). Their great-gr.son, Judge J. H.' Hazelrigg, member of Court of Appeals of Ky., a young, brilliant man.. Many of this family are distinguished. Ch.: Dillard[5] Hazelrigg, of Montgomery co.

+16025 JAMES[4] CLEVELAND, born —— —, 17—.

+16026 ELIZABETH[4] CLEVELAND, born about 1755–6.

+16027 WILLIAM[4] CLEVELAND, b. December 24, 1757, in Albemarle county, Virginia.

+16028 MARTHA, or PATSY[4] CLEVELAND, b. June 9, 1764.

ALEXANDER[3] CLEVELAND evidently accompanied his father and brother, John[3], from Bull Run to Orange co., Va.

Orange co. rec.—1734 [about the commencement of the records] Prince Curtis deeds ALEXANDER CLEVELAND 101 acres. ALEXANDER CLEVELAND, JR., and Margaret, his wife, deed William Cowisey, June 28, 1759, 100 acres, part of patent to Col. Thomas Chew for 1,600 acres. No will or settlement of est.

Records at Brentsville, Prince William co., Va.—1778, ALEXANDER CLEVELAND sworn receipt for 40[s] for rent.

The farm vacated by Robert[4] Cleveland +16013, in Prince William co., was rented by —— Holtzclaw to Alexander[3] Cleveland.

William[4] (son of Alexander[3]), on entering the Continental army about 1776, sold his interest in his father's estate; it is therefore evident that Alexander[3] d. prior to that sale.

Henry Wilson[5] Cleveland stated that Alexander[3] m. Margaret Doolittle. She was living after the war closed.

Oliver[4] Cleveland (son of Alexander[3]), in a letter May 10, 1839, says: "Last fall I determined to take a trip to Kentucky to visit my sisters and brothers, which trip I performed in my carriage and have just returned home. They have children and grandchildren. I have three sisters in Kentucky: Betsy, Milly, and Patsy, and one brother, William, and one sister, Anca, in Amherst co., Virginia. My mother had six sons and seven daughters, all of whom are dead except those named above and myself. My sister Betsy's descendants have increased the population over 100."

JEREMIAH[3] CLEVELAND (Alexander[2], Alexander[1]), m., name of wife unknown. Ch.: the following and other sons and daughters, who, it is thought, remained in Culpeper co., Va.:

+16029 JACOB[4] CLEVELAND, b. May 6, 1739, in Culpeper co., near Culpeper C. H., Va.

+16030 (?) REUBEN[4] CLEVELAND (conjectured to be a son), b. ab. 1741–54.

JEREMIAH[3] CLEVELAND lived with his parents on Bull Run. It is not known whether he removed with them to Blue Run, Va. His son Jacob[4] came from Culpeper co., Va., 1780, to S. C., but none of Jacob's brothers and sisters [any of whose names we have been unable to learn] left Va. with him. Peter[6] Cleveland +16397 remembers, 1886, that Jacob[4] had brothers (but has not their names), and that his great-grandfather (who, it is thought, came from Eng.) was named either Jeremiah or John, is not positive which. But the name could not have been John, for Gen. Benjamin[6] Cleveland +16224 stated that he was second +16113 WILLIAM[5] CLEVELAND, born Apr. 8, 1766, Culpeper county, near Culpeper Court House, Va.

16114 MARY[5], born Jan. 7, 1768, Culpeper co., m. William Jones, rem. to Tenn. (so thought); address: W. Cleveland Ward, Goshen, Lincoln co., Ga., 1884.

+16115 JOHN[5] CLEVELAND, born Nov. 8, 30, 1769, Culpeper county, near Culpeper Court House, Va.

+16116 JACOB[5] CLEVELAND, born Jan. 25, 1772, Culpeper county, near Culpeper Court House, Va.

16117 MARTHA[5], b. Feb. 20, 1774, Culpeper co., died supposed in Tuscaloosa, Ala., m. Castleton Lyons. Of Tuscaloosa.

+16118 REUBEN[5] CLEVELAND, born Aug. 13, 1776, Culpeper county, near Culpeper Court House, Va.

16119 DANIEL[5] CLEVELAND, b. Sept. 9, 1778, Culpeper co., d. supposed in La., m. and rem. to La. American State Papers, Public Lands, III: 67 — Actual settlers on land in La., East of Miss. river and island of New Orleans, and W. of Pearl river, who have no claims thereto derived from the French, British, or Spanish: Daniel Cleveland, for C. S. Ingram, No. 1, Nov., 1810; Daniel Cleveland, No. 1, Nov., 1812.

16120 ELIZABETH[5], b. Jan. 24, 1782, Abbeville Dist., S. C., d. sup. in Tenn., m. Nathan Wanslow; of Tenn.

16121 LARKIN[5], b. Culpeper co., living in South Carolina.

JACOB[4] CLEVELAND lived in Culpeper co., n. Culpeper C. H., to 1780, Abbeville Dist. to 1782, afterward on the old Cleveland homestead, on Vaus or Vans Creek, Elbert co., n. Elberton; farmer. Is buried in old family cemetery on the farm.

16006.

MICAJAH[3] CLEVELAND ([?Alexander[2], Alexander[1]]), m., name of his wife not known, she d. prob. in Tenn. after 1800. (She m. 2d — see below.) Children:

+16031 MICAJAH[4] or BICAJAH[4] CLEVELAND.

16032 JOHN, afterward JACK[4] CLEVELAND, was stolen by Indians. His mother, mourning for him as dead, named her next child John. But the first John returned home in several years, and then his name was changed to JACK, and familiarly called Indian Jack. He accompanied his mother to Tenn., and went with Mr. Hurly to Clinch mountain (toward Ky.), where he shouldered his gun and went away; not since heard from.

+16033 JOHN[4] CLEVELAND. SALLY[4]; NANCY[4] CLEVELAND.

MICAJAH[3] CLEVELAND lived in Va., and was troubled by Indians, who stole his son, as narrated above.

Mrs. Micajah Cleveland m. 2d, prob. in Va., John Shaw, removed from Va. (with Mr. Hurly and family) to Tenn., and thence to Shelby co., Ky., and lived awhile. Ch.: Jimmy Shaw, Benjamin Shaw, Joseph Shaw, Jessy Shaw, Betsy Shaw.

ELIZABETH[3] CLEVELAND (Alexander[2], Alexander[1]), m. Rev. James Coffey. Child:

+16034 Elizabeth[4] Coffey, b. ab. 1740–50, in North Carolina.

ELIZABETH[3] lived in Prince William co., Va. Her father evidently was Alexander[2].

Rev. James Coffey, a Baptist clergyman, went early to N. C. Very probably he was brother to Martha Coffee, wife of John[3] Cleveland.

16008.

WILLIAM[3] CLEVELAND (Alexander[2], Alexander[1]), died in or near Loudoun co., Va., between Oct. 17, 1787, and May 29, 1788, m. Mary ———, who survived him. Child:

DORKEY or DORKUS[4] CLEVELAND, survived her father.

WILLIAM[3] CLEVELAND lived in Loudoun co., Va. His will, dated Oct. 17, 1787, was probated June 9, 1788. He leaves all his estate to his wife Mary during widowhood; if she marries, then it is to be equally divided between his wife Mary and daughter Dorkey (or Dorkus).—Clerk of Loudoun co., Va.

Prof. Lewis Cass[7] Woolery writes: "I do not know who this WILLIAM CLEVELAND is, unless he was my grandfather's uncle."

16009.

JOHN[4] CLEVELAND (John[3], Alexander[2], Alexander[1]), died at Cleveland's Ferry, Tugaloo River, S. C., or d. in Ga.; ab. 1821, a. ab. 91, m. Mary or Mollie McCan, she d. at Cleveland's Ferry prior to 1809. Children, several sons gone West:

+16041 JEREMIAH[5] CLEVELAND, b. Cleveland's Ferry or Pendleton Dist.

16042 MARY[5] CLEVELAND, b. Cleveland's Ferry, m. there, John Jackson Walters, Franklin co., Ga.

16043 LARKIN[5] CLEVELAND, born Cleveland's Ferry (this name is not found in all the family records of this family).

+16044 BENJAMIN[5] CLEVELAND, b. Cleveland's Ferry, Tugaloo River, S. C.

Rev. JOHN[4] CLEVELAND, a Baptist clergyman; went about 1772, 1785, from Va. and N. C. with his brother Larkin[4], journied on pack-horses, and cut their road through cane and brush as they traveled.

"When he would preach, the wicked people would take him out of the house and beat him severely, but he would preach on; and when they let him go, would mount a stump or log and finish his sermon."

They came to Pickens District, S. C., and were of the first settlers. Lived in Pendleton District, at Cleveland's Ferry. [Pendleton Dist. was divided, 1828, into Anderson and Pickens; Pickens was divided, 1866, into Pickens and Oconee counties. The Clevelands lived mostly in Oconee.] He was one of the very first settlers of Franklin co., Ga., ab. 1785 (then inhabited by Indians). His home on Tugaloo River (his brother Larkin lived on the Ga. side, in sight of each other), where he dwelt many years and reared his family, who settled at various points along Tugaloo River (a branch of the Savannah). Preached in Chauga church, Oconee co., and in Eastonala church, Ga. "He was good to his neighbors and the poor, kind to his many darkies, who thought their master better than any other man."

He was living with his son-in-law, Benjamin Harrison, at time of his death.

CHAPTER 6

THE CLEVELAND FAMILY

Several notations have been made in previous chapters concerning the Clevelands. It seems appropriate at this point to give an account of the Cleveland genealogy since all who descend from Rev. James Coffey share some Cleveland ancestry, and some other Coffeys may be related.

It is extremely difficult, and perhaps impossible to arrive at a true account regarding the relationships and ancestry of the Clevelands of eighteenth century Virginia. Most accounts of this family's genealogy seem to have been derived from the works of Edmund James Cleveland, published in 1899.[1] Mr. Cleveland details, perhaps accurately, the history of the New England immigrant, Moses Cleveland, and then in volume 3 proceeds to give an account of an Alexander Cleveland who is supposed to be the ancestor of the Virginia Clevelands and possibly a brother of Moses. He admits that there is no documentary evidence for this Alexander in America. Apparently the best evidence is a letter written by Oliver Cleveland of Albemarle county Virginia which states "my father and grandfather were both named Alexander Cleveland. My grandfather lived to be 111 years old and my grandmother to be 103 years old. My grandfather was an Englishman by birth." It appears, however, that Oliver's grandfather was the son of this (perhaps imaginary) first Alexander. Edmund Cleveland lists only 1 known son, Alexander, born about 1659 (apparently in England), and died about 1770 at the home of son John Cleveland on Blue Run, Orange county Virginia. His wife was perhaps Milly Presley, born about 1667 and died 1770, 3 days after Alexander. Children listed were:

John Cleveland, born abt 1695-1700
Alexander Cleveland, born abt 1698-1710
Jeremiah Cleveland, born abt 1700-1712
Micajah Cleveland, born about 1702-1712 (this may not have been his son)
Elizabeth Cleveland, born abt 1704-1716
William Cleveland, born about 1719

He also indicates that the above Alexander may have been the original immigrant rather than another Alexander who was his father. At any rate he says they settled on Bull Run in Prince William county Virginia and removed prior to 1734 or 1738 some 60 miles southwest to Blue Run in Orange county (near the line of Albemarle.)

At this point it seems to me that Mr. Cleveland may have confused two Cleveland lines. In 1958 George A. Martin published an article[2] which refutes much of these original claims. Citing the Abingdon Parish Register of Gloucester county

Virginia (which I also have checked) he shows that Roger and Dorcas Cleveland were the parents of Alexander who in turn was the father of John who settled in Orange county. He also cites evidence[3] that the Clevelands went from Gloucester county to Spotsylvania county. There is a deed for Roger Cleveland in 1679 which says he was of Gloucester.[4] He purchased land in Old Rappahannock county which of course later became Essex county and may have been that part of Essex which still later became Spottsylvania county.

We do not know when Roger and Dorcas Cleveland came to Virginia, or whether he came over and married her here, but they seem to be the first Clevelands in the records of Virginia, and Roger was in Virginia by Nov. 16, 1670.[5] It is not entirely clear to me whether the Clevelands moved from Spotsylvania to Orange or were just in that part of Spotsylvania that became Orange county in 1734. At any rate an Alexander Cleveland witnessed a deed in Spotsylvania county April 2, 1734[3] and Alexander Jr. bought 100 acres from Rice Curtis in Orange county March 17, 1734.[6] He was listed as being from Spotsylvania county at the time. Alexander also bought 100 acres in Orange county from Lawrence Franklin in September 1738 but sold (or leased) this to John Taylor November 23, 1752.[7]

John Cleveland also bought 100 acres from Rice Curtis on Branches of "Blew Run" adjoining that bought by Alexander and on the same day.[6] Both of these deeds were witnessed by Grace Cleveland who I suppose is the Grace Cleveland that married Edward Coffey, son of Edward Sr. and Ann Powell. Grace was John's sister. John also bought part of 1600 acres on March 18, 1734. He apparently remained in Orange county on Blue Run the rest of his life and died there. His will was made November 1, 1778 and proved in Orange county court November 26, 1778.[8]

Alexander Sr. (son of Roger and Dorcas) married Mary _____ or Milley Presley and according to the Abingdon Parish Register had the following children:

1. Alexander Jr., baptised May 25, 1712 (this is probably the Alexander later found in Albemarle county.)
2. John, born July 31, baptised August 24, 1714 (this is the John mentioned above in Orange county.)
3. Grace, born September 1, baptised September 30, 1716 (she married Edward Coffey, son of Edward and Ann (Powell) Coffey).
4. William, born February 23, baptised March 22, 1718.
5. Benjamin, born November 21, baptised November 28, 1721.

According to family tradition Alexander died at Blue Run at or near his son John's home (possibly 1770?). There is no will for him.

Moving over to Albemarle county we find that Jacob Cleveland and wife Mildred to Alexander Cleveland 99 acres in North Garden on the Hardware River[9] (this is where John and Jane (Graves) Coffey lived) September 9, 1762, witnessed Eli Cleveland. This is the land he received by patent November 10, 1757. Also in 1762 he bought 114 acres from Henry Carter (witnessed by Eli Cleveland.) He got 184 acres in March 1778. In the minutes of Albemarle church (Baptist) a list of members in 1773 included Jacob Cleveland, Milley Cleveland and Fanney Cleveland.[10] I do not know where this Jacob fits in. Edmond James Cleveland says he is a son of Jeremiah (son of Alexander), born May 6, 1739. Perhaps this is correct, although the date may be off somewhat.

I did not find any other deeds for Alexander but he witnessed a deed by James Cleveland July 26, 1767.[11] His will[12] is recorded as being made February 2, 1776 and proved at November court 1776. It lists his wife Margaret and children James (eldest), Oliver, William (under 21), Anne, Elizabeth, Mille, and Polley. (Polley is a nickname for Mary). It doesn't list Eli as a son but executors included "wife Margaret and son in law and son Eli Cleavland and Edward Johnson" (presumably he meant Eli as a son). Witnesses were Eli and Oliver Cleavland and Edward Johnson. This could well be the Alexander that Edmund Cleveland listed as the second child of the Alexander who was supposedly born in 1659 and died in 1770,(but in reality born in 1687[2].) This Alexander Jr. would have been a brother to John of Orange county. The children listed in the will are also listed by Edmund Cleveland. However, there are additional ones listed in Edmund's book (Anka, Alexander, John, and Martha or Patsey) which are not listed in the will. In a 1782 tax list a Margarett Cleavland is listed with no males in the household above age 21. She must have been the widow of Alexander.

Putting Edmund James Cleveland's list together with information from other sources[13] we can come up with the following:

Alexander Cleveland, b. 1712, Gloucester co. VA; m. Margaret Doolittle (deed records, will and statement of grandson Henry Wilson Cleveland); children:

1. James, b. ___, d. prob. 1791 (if this is the James whose will is rec. in Louden co. 12 Sep 1781 - wife Frances, child. Johnston, Hannah, & George); was a captain in the Rev. War.
2. Eli, b. 1729-34 (according to tradition he was 95-100 at time of death. However, most Cleveland ages seem to be exagerated and he was probably somewhat younger - note birthdates of brothers and sisters); d. Apr. or May 1829 in Fayette co., KY (w.p. Jun 1829). Possibly this is the same Eli who was an assistant minister in the Littleriver Church (Regular Baptist), Louden co., VA in 1772.[10] This church had several branches and he may have been in the Bull Run Branch. On Oct. 16, 1766 he leased land in Prince William co. and was listed as being of that county.

3. Alexander, b. ____; d. abt. 1825; md. Sarah Ann _____.
4. John, b. _____ ; d. bef. 1839.
5. Oliver, b. abt 1749; d. Feb. or Spring 1844, Madison co., KY; md. 19 Dec 1792 Jane Buckner (The Oliver Cleveland who d. in Albemarle co. in 1785 is apparently an earlier one).
6. Anna, b. 1751; d. 14 Jan 1838, Montgomery co., KY; m. John Hazelrigg.
7. Anka or Ankey, b. ____; d.-still living in Amherst co. VA in 1839; m. _____ Wood.
8. Elizabeth, b. abt 1755-6; d. 1845/6; m. John McWilliams or perhaps Bennett Gillum (?); went to KY.
9. William, b. 24 Dec 1757, Albemarle co., VA; d. 18 Jun 1842, Pendleton co., KY; m. Margaret Wilson.
10. Milly, b. _____; d.-living in KY in 1839; m. _____Henry.
11. Mary (Polly), b. _____; d. prior to 1839; m. _____ Johnson.
12. Martha (Patsy), b. 9 Jun 1764; d. _____; m. Mar 14 1793 Bernard Franklin.[14] Also went to KY.

All six of the boys were in the Revolutionary War and were supposed to have all been at the Yorktown surrender.

The problem that still remains with the above list is that the age span of birthdates is too great, at least for one wife. However, I offer this list since there seems to be nothing better at this time. As previously mentioned, Alexander Jr. (the father in the above list) died in 1776 in Albemarle county. His wife Margaret lived for some years after the war. It can be seen that most of this family went to Kentucky, although it is possible the son Alexander may have gone to Prince William county Virginia.

Returning to the family of Alexander Cleveland Sr., the second son, John (who settled on Blue Run in Orange county) had a well-known family. He married Elizabeth Coffey (not Martha, as Edmund James Cleveland says). She was a younger daughter of Edward and Ann (Powell) Coffey (see chapter 3). John's will in 1778 lists 5 sons and 3 daughters. He omits his son Larkin but there are enough other accounts of the Clevelands to indicate that Larkin belonged to this family. The account of Edmund James Cleveland omits Patty, and does not have the names for daughter Betty (Elizabeth?) and son Reuben. Some of his dates are also incorrect. Utilizing these two sources together with the Draper papers and other historical accounts we can arrive at the following:

John Cleveland, b. Jul 31, 1714, Gloucester co. VA; d. Nov 1778, Blue Run, Orange co., VA; m. 20 Apr 1734[15] Elizabeth Coffey (b. abt 1714, Essex co.VA). Children:

1. Mary - m. Bernard (Barnett or Meishack) Franklin; moved to Wilkes co.N.C. with most of the Clevelands (land entry in 1778); d. Jan 1828. There is some confusion here with the Bernard Franklin who m. Martha of the previous family (I am here assuming they are two different imdividuals.)

2. Benjamin[16] - (prob. the oldest son) b. 26 May 1738, prob. Orange co. VA; raised there; m. abt 1761 Mary Graves, dau of William Graves. Benjamin spent some time in Pittsylvania co. VA where he became known as a mighty hunter. In about 1768 he moved his family to N.C., initially to Surry (created from Rowan in 1770), finally settling on the "Round about" on the upper Yadkin River in Wilkes co. He and Mary had three children: Absalom, John and Jemima. In 1779 & 1780 he represented Wilkes co. in the N.C. General Assembly.[26] Ben was a Colonel in the Rev. War, commanded a Regiment of N.C. Militia ("Wilkes county Bulldogs") in the famous battle of Kings Mt.[17] (So. Carolina) Oct. 7, 1780. This regiment included several Coffeys and relatives. Col. Ben was known as the "terror of the Torries", being forever in and out of scrapes with the British but always coming out victorious. For awhile after the War he operated an inn in Wilkes co. but soon moved to the Pendleton District of So. Carolina along the Tugalo River on a line between the whites and the Cherokee Indian tribe. Here he became a judge. Benjamin is reported to have grown to enormous proportions, reaching a weight of 450-500 pounds. One account even says his weight at death was 734 pounds (rather unlikely). He died in S. Carolina (some say Georgia) in Oct. 1806 (w.d. 10 Sep, w.p. 21 Oct). Cleveland co. N.C. was named in his honor.

3. John - b. 1740?. Edmund James Cleveland says he was the oldest and born 1730. This seems highly unlikely and probably based on age reported (by some) at his death. As we have seen and will continue to point out, tradition has a tendency to lengthen the life of an ancester and this seems especially true in the case of the Clevelands. This John Cleveland should not be confused with one called "Devil John" who is supposed to be the son of Benjamin and with him at the battle of Kings Mt. However, if the birthdate of 1769, generally given for him, is correct he would only have been 11 years old at the time of the battle! (I think the b.d. is incorrect).The John we are here discussing became a Baptist minister in Wilkes co., N.C. (land entry there Jan. 1779), later in S. Carolina. His death is reported to have occurred at Cleveland's Ferry, Tugalo R., S.C. (or poss. Georgia) in 1820/1. He m. Mary or Molly McCann.

4. Elizabeth (Betty) - b. 6 Jun 1742, Orange co., VA; d. 19 Apr 1828, Scott co. KY; m. abt 1760-65 David Gillaspy; moved to Madison co. KY in 1802.

5. Robert - b. 8 Jan 1744, Blue Run, Orange co., VA. He also removed to Wilkes co. N.C. (land entry 1 Oct 1779) where he remained the rest of his life, dying Apr. 10/26, 1812 at his home on Lewis Fork. He was a captain in the War and also at King's Mt. He also was involved with his brother Ben in some daring skirmishes with the Torries. Robert m. (1) bef 1770 Alice (Aley or Aily) Mathis of Kentucky who was b. 11 Dec 1750 and d. 18 Dec. 1791, and (2) Sallie Johnson of Wilkes co. He had 17 children by the 2 wives. In 1809 he was a member of the 6th U.S. Electoral College from N. Carolina. He may have lived in Pittsylvania county Virginia before going to Wilkes co., N.C. as a Robert Cleveland, not otherwise accounted for, is there as a land owner in 1779 (Deed Bk. 5, p. 91).

6. Reuben - Little is known about him but he is mentioned in his father's will. He apparently d. bef. 9 Feb. 1792 and had a son John.[18]

7. Jeremiah - b. abt 1746 according to Edmund Cleveland. However, his dau. Martha Cleveland Lingow, b. 1788,[13] (quoted in Draper papers) says 1753. He remained in VA & d. there in 1806. He is mentioned several times in Albemarle deed and order bks. His wife was Mary Gentry (dau of Benajah Gentry & Miss Austin & b. abt 1755) of Albemarle co.[19] Jeremiah had 13 children.[20] One must be careful to distinguish between this Jeremiah and his uncle, son of Alexander Sr. Some claim that Jeremiah, son of John, also went to N.C., but the dates fit better here. It may be that he went to Wilkes co. briefly then back to VA. The Jeremaih who m. Elizabeth Moon was a son of this Jeremiah.[12,20]

8. Larkin - b. 6 Apr 1748 (his monument says "April 1748"); went to Wilkes co., N.C. where he was among the earliest to make a land entry in 1778, and was a Lieutenant in the Rev. War. He was badly wounded at Kings Mt. and was a cripple the rest of his life. After the War he also went to So. Carolina, Georgia and finally settled in Lincoln co. TN. He d. in Giles co. TN 9 Jul 1814. Larkin m. Frances _____. A Larkin Cleveland appears on some records of Bedford co. VA in 1774 (Ct. Ord. Bk. 5, pp. 26, 111.)

9. Patty or Patsy - m. James Smith 9 Nov 1775, Orange co., VA.[21]

It should be noted that some sources list the b.d. of Patty as 1750 and Reuben 1752 but the above order (with the exception of the omitted Larkin) is as they are given in John's will. I have also seen a source listing Larkin's birth as 1756.

Of the other children of Alexander Cleveland, Sr. given in the Abingdon Parish Register:

(1) nothing is known of the Benjamin born in 1721.

(2) William, b. 1718, was among the citizens of Albemarle co. signing a declaration of Independence April 21, 1779, but apparently lived later in Loudoun co. VA[22] and had a wife Nancy and a dau. Dorcas; d. 1787/8.

(3) We have already seen that Grace (b. 1716) md. Edward Coffey the son of Edward. They lived in the Albemarle-Orange co. area, at least for a time.

Edmund J. Cleveland does not list Benjamin or Grace as children of this Alexander but does list Jeremiah, Elizabeth, and perhaps Micajah. This Jeremiah had a son Jacob and it may be he who is mentioned in the Albemarle county deeds.[9] I have no record on Micajah and it is uncertain if he belongs here so I will not discuss him further.

That brings us to Elizabeth who Cleveland says was born about 1704-16 and married Rev. James Coffey. However, since the latter was born in 1729 it would seem that Elizabeth could not be as old as he says. Since all the other dates for this family given by Cleveland seem to be wrong there is no reason to believe this one would be correct. But why do not the names of Elizabeth and Jeremiah ppear in the Abingdon Parish Register. This is because they were born after the family left Gloucester county and moved to Spottsylvania county and we have no record of births there. Thus Elizabeth might have been born about 1726 or 1727 or as late as 1730 as some have suggested. (Note that in chapter 5 we have shown that there is one possibly good record that gives the date as February 1727).

There is another Cleveland that does not appear in either Edmund Cleveland's book or the Abingdon Parish Register but nevertheless probably belongs here. This is Jane Cleveland who married Chesley Coffey. The reader should turn to chapter 7 for additional information on this couple and their descendants but for now I will simply say that I am placing her birth as occurring about 1725. This date fits an open spot in the list of Alexander Sr.'s children and would make her about the right age to marry and have the children attributed to her in chapter 7.

This just about accounts for all of the Clevelands in the records of the counties around Orange and Albemarle except for a John who died in Albemarle county in 1786.[23] He sold 259 acres in Albemarle to Edward Johnson December 13, 1774, witnessed by Alexander Cleveland.[24] At present I have no idea who this John was because all other John Clevelands we know about moved elsewhere and died later. If he was the John son of Roger (b. before 1678), he would be at least 108 at the time of his death. Perhaps he was a son of William (1718), Benjamin (1721), Jeremiah (1723) or Micajah. The latter supposedly had two sons named John.[1] We should also not rule out Alexander and Margaret as his parents.

In order to bring some sort of logical conclusion to this lengthy discussion I suggest that Chart 6 might explain what I believe to be the true Cleveland genealogy at least as far as I can derive it with the information I have.

It will thus be seen that Elizabeth Cleveland is a daughter of Alexander Cleveland (as her son Rice gives it[25]) and a granddaughter of Roger Cleveland. She is thus an aunt of our Colonel Benjamin Cleveland (not a sister as some have said). Also, she would be an aunt to the Clevelands who went from Albemarle county to Kentucky (children of her brother Alexander).

Using these dates we would find that Alexander Sr. (b. 1687), who if he died in 1770, was only 83 years old, not 111 as related by many descendants. Alexander Jr. (b. 1712) died at age 64 (1776) and his brother John at Blue Run, Orange county (b. 1714) was also 64 (d. 1778). Also many of the other Clevelands previously mentioned as having died between age 90 and 100 were probably somewhat less. I am reminded of the saying, "the palest ink is better than the strongest memory."

I'm sorry I had to cut some of it off — Anna

An early Cleveland, still unplaced, is William Cleiveland who gave his power of attorney in 1724 in Essex county. Another unplaced one is the Robert "of Fauquier county" who leased land in Prince William county on December 18, 1775. Perhaps he is a son of William (1718) or Eli since both were in neighboring Loudoun county. The Alexander Cleveland who witnessed two wills in Fairfax county (Will Bk. D) in 1777 must have been the son of Alexander and Margaret (Doolittle) Cleveland.

It should finally be mentioned that an important source of Cleveland history has been the Draper Papers.[13] Lyman Draper wrote to a lot of the Cleveland descendants to get information for his Kings Mt. and other histories. He collected a multitude of information, much of it contradictory and based on tradition. How he pieced it together to get his history leaves something to be desired. An examination of his original papers together with other known facts can easily lead one to different conclusions which I believe to be more correct.

To Draper's credit he does discredit the story of the supposed Cleveland connection with Oliver Cromwell. Since this has become so much a part of Cleveland history and tradition I feel compelled to make some mention of it. As the story goes a beautiful maiden in the palace of Hampton Court by the name of Elizabeth Cleveland attracted the attentions of Oliver Cromwell, the Crown Protector, and a son was born to them. When he grew up he took his mother's name and wrote a book "The Life and Adventures of Mr. Cromwell, Natural Son of Oliver Cromwell" which was first published in 1731 (after his death) by the consent of his son. Several researchers have concluded that it is a fictitious romance and no evidence for such a Cromwellian-Cleveland son exists. Be that as it may, Col. Benjamin Cleveland had a copy of the book and delighted in claiming his descent in this manner. Other Clevelands did so as well and the story has become legend. I suspect that Oliver Cleveland (son of Alexander Jr.) was named for the character in this book. Suffice it to say here that the Roger-Alexander descent seems to be the correct one. As to the English origin of the Clevelands we know that this family is an anceint one, deriving its name from a tract of land in the North Riding of Yorkshire.[17]

However, Laurence Coffey in his Thomas Coffey and His Descendants (generally considered a more authoritative source) lists John as marrying Elizabeth and Martha (Patsy) as marrying Joshua Stapp. The Stapp (Stepp) family also has it this way.

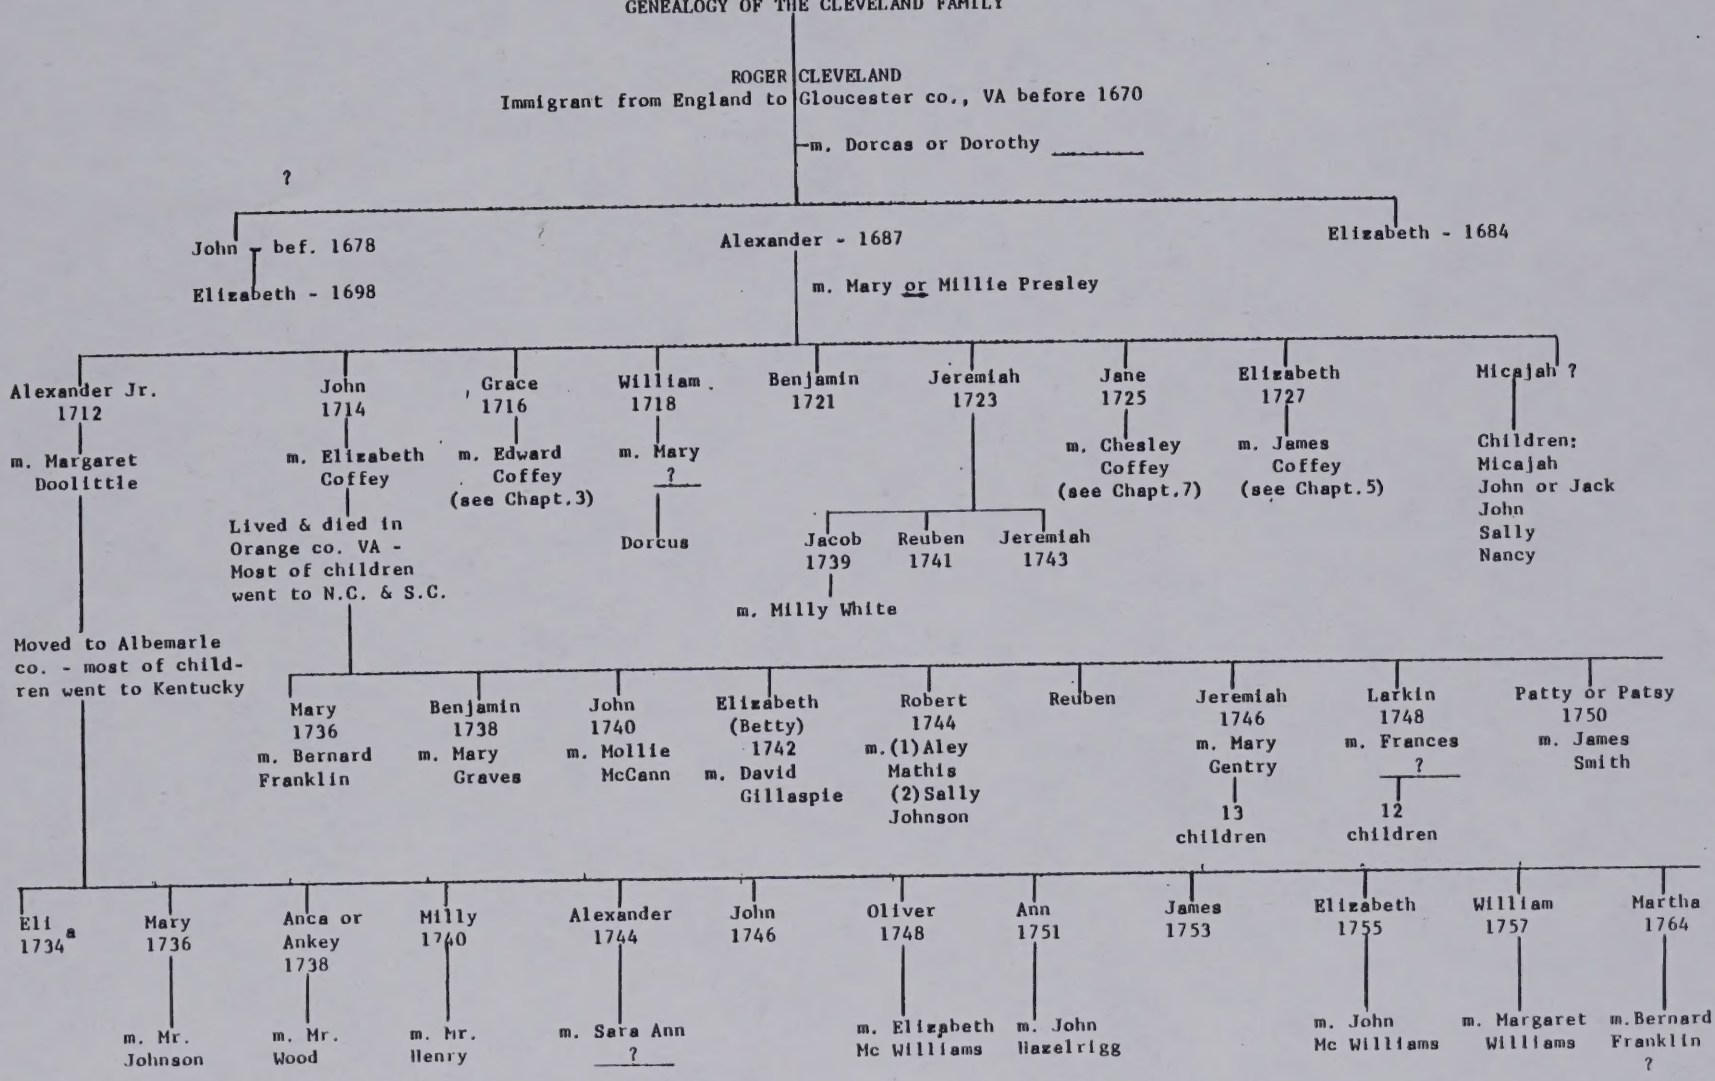
GENEALOGY OF THE CLEVELAND FAMILY



[a] This date and others for this family are from a Family Group Record Archive sheet at the L.D.S. Genealogical Library, Salt Lake City.

CLEVELAND NOTES

1 ROGER CLEVELAND, the first Cleveland in VA, arrived before 16 November 1670. In VA or England, he m Dorcas — . In 1679, Symon Miller, of Rappahannock, "boate wright sold to Roger Cleverland of the Pish of Abbington of County of Gloucester planter 440 acres lying on the North side of Rappahannock River adjoining Cornelius Reynolds. Signed by Simon Miller and Margaret (X) Miller, witnesses Cor: Reynolds and Jno Rowzie." Recorded 5 November 1679, Edmo: Craske.[1]

Roger moved to the part of Spottsylvania County that, in 1734, became Orange County.[2]

According to Edmund James Cleveland,[3] Alexander Cleveland, b England, ca 1617, was the father of #13 Alexander and settled in Prince William County, VA; he married Lord Axminster's daughter. Cleveland, very vague about this, admitted that he had found no record of birth, death, marriage of the earlier Alexander Cleveland. He was a descendent of, and mainly interested in, Moses Cleaveland. George A. Martin[4] showed that Roger was the ancestor of the Southern Clevelands.

Children[5]:

11 JOHN CLEVELAND (Roger) was born prior to 1678, when the Abingdon Parish Register was begun. Children:

111 ELIZABETH CLEVELAND (John, Roger) was baptized 24 April 1698.[6]

12 ELIZABETH CLEVELAND (Roger) was baptised 31 October 1684.[7]

13 ALEXANDER CLEVELAND (Roger), baptised 31 July 1687, Gloucester County, VA, d 1775.[8] (Several Sons and Daughters of the Pilgrims members claim through him.) He m, ca 1711, Mildred "Milley" Presley, b ca 1667, d at age 103 only days after Alexander's death at 111 on son John's Blue Run plantation. I had thought she was a daughter of Elizabeth Thompson and Peter Presley, son of William Presley, but Peter's will, probated in 1693 in Northumberland County, VA, showed his children to be Jane, b 1664, the second wife of Richard Rogers (her second husband was Christopher Neale), Mary, who m Dr. Charnock Cox, Ursula, who m Wharton Ransdall, and Captain Peter Presley, Jr., who d 1718 without issue.

Alexander Cleaveland, on 7 February 1733, witnessed a deed from William Hutcherson, of St. Georges Parish, Spotslvania County, to Rice Curtis.[9]

On 20 May 1735 Rice Curtis, Sr., of Spotsylvania County, conveyed 600 acres on both sides of "Blew Run" on the Hanover County line to Thomas Chew, of Orange County, St. Mark's Parish, adjoining land of John Minor and Alexander Cleveland, part of a 1,600-acre patent to Chew, sold to Curtis, and repurchased.

Alexander, of Spotsylvania County, bought 100 acres from Lawrence Franklin, of Orange County, on the same September 1738 day John Cleveland bought 100 acres from Rice Curtis on branches of "Blew Run" adjoining Alexander. Witness Grace Cleveland, Alexander's daughter, probably m Edward Coffey, the son of Edward and Ann Powell Coffey.

On 27 May 1743, Alexander Cleaveland having petitioned for a road, it was ordered that Alexander Cleaveland, Jr., John Cleaveland, Benjamin Franklin, Edward Coffee, and others,

On 28 June 1759 Alexander, Jr. and wife Margaret, planters, sold 100 acres on Blue Run to William Coursey, Jr., schoolmaster, part of Thomas Chew's 1600 acres sold to Rice Curtis, Sr., and by him sold to Cleveland, bounded by John Douglas, Blue Run, and Thomas Chew. John Cleveland, of Spotsylvania County, planter, bought 100 acres of a 1600-acre patent on Blue Run, adjoining Thomas Chew, Alexander Cleveland, Jr., and Hancock Lee. on 18 March 1735. (Alexander, Jr. bought 100 acres at the same time.)

On 17 February 1735, he became overseer of road from Piney Mountain Run to the ridge between Blue Run and Pettys Creek. Alexander Cleveland was to assist.[28]

On 21 September 1736, John's road was ordered cleared per his petition, William Bryan overseer. [29] John was appointed overseer 22 March 1749.

He and wife d on Blue Run, Orange County, VA. His 1 November 1778 will, proved 26 November 1778, named sons Benjamin, John, Robert, Reuben, and Jeremiah, and daughters Mary, Betty, Patty, but omitted son Larkin. After Patty Smith's life estate, proceeds from sale of home place were to go to grandchildren Betty Smith and Austin. Baptists, probably Blue Run Church.[30] Children:

1807, m, 1752, Bernard Franklin, b 6 May 1731, Albemarle County, VA, d Wilkes County, NC January 1828. On 1759 Albemarle County tax roll he was called Barnett Franklin.[31] Bernard was the son of Laurence Franklin and Mary Payne. That he was called "Jr." suggests the existence of another Bernard Franklin, perhaps an uncle or cousin.

They settled on a Surry County, NC site chosen by the 17-year-old Jesse on a hill overlooking Fisher River about 1769. Their home near Lowgap, built in 1792, was acquired by the Surry County Historical Society in 1972.

Bernard, who may have founded the Mitchell River Baptist Church, named childen for Biblical figures. He m, second, in 1807, Susannah, widow of James Fletcher, of Wilkes County. The Clevelands and Franklins were Albemarle County, VA settlers.[32]

Major John Redd, of Henry County, age 95, wrote,

> "Clasby and Smith who married two of Col Cleveland's sisters were men of little note. Franklin, who married the other, was a man of very fine standing in the county. I don't know what became of Clasby. Smith moved to Kentucky. Franklin moved to Surry County, NC, settled on Mitchell's River and lived there until his death. He raised a large family of children, some of whom became men of distinction. Jesse .... Meshack, a younger brother, was a member of Congress from the same state for several years. Abednego, the youngest, emigrated to Georgia and became a man of considerable distinction."[33]

On 6 February 1764, Lawrence Franklyn, Sr. and wife, Mary (Payne), of Orange County, VA, conveyed to "Bernard Franklyn, Leather breeches maker of County

Anticipating Tory attacks she "buried all the best bedclothes and table linens in a big box in the garden and then planted potatoes to disguise the fresh dirt. And (another family member) tucked all the family's gold and silver in a stocking, hid it under her apron and then sat calmly down to knit and make conversation while Tories raided the house. The box in the garden and the stocking full of treasure were all that was left of the family's property by the time the war was over."[35]

Bernard Franklin, of Orange County, signed a 1779 petition to the House of Delegates, and on 8 November 1779 he entered 50 acres on Mitchell's River and next day another 10 acres in Wilkes County.

On 25 October 1792 Jeremiah and Mary Cleveland, of Albemarle County, VA, conveyed to Barnard Franklin, of Albemarle, for 125 pds, 550 acres in Franklin County, GA on Little Creek adjoining Beth'l Riggs, part of tract purchased by Jeremiah from Benjamin Cleveland, of SC. In 1769 his uncle Ben Cleveland moved to the Wilkesboro area. In 1777, after a year in the militia, the 17-year-old Jesse was sent by his father to obtain land. He chose a tract bisected by Haystack Road on Mitchell's River in Surry County 20 miles from Ben Cleveland and built cabins for his father's family, four boys and two girls, all under 16.

The British in SC were coming northward, and the Tories were raiding, so the Whigs built a fort near Wilkesboro.[39] As adjutant to Ben Cleveland, Franklin fought at Kings Mountain and Guilford Courthouse on 15 March 1781.

Once, as he was about to he hanged—the rope was around his neck—he said, "You all know my uncle Benjamin Cleveland, if you hang me he will pursue you like a blood hound and he will never stop the chase while there is a drop of warm blood running through your veins." The Tories let Jesse go. "This sercomstance (sic) of the Torys tying a rope around Franklin's neck was related to me by Franklin himself."[40]

He moved to Wilkes County in 1784 and Surry in 1793. Congressman in 1795-6, he was twice elected

Daniel Boone told Cleveland about KY and about 1772 he, Jesse Bond, Jesse Walton, Edward Rice, and William Hightower set out for KY. At the Cumberland Gap they were robbed of guns and horses by the Cherokee. Months later, Cleveland recovered his property from Cherokee chief Big Bear.

Joseph Graves' will, on 12 July 1774, named wife Sarah and minor children of his daughter Mary Cleveland—Absolam and John. Executors were Mary Graves Cleveland and Jesse Walton. [50]

In 1775, when neighbors were forced to pledge allegiance to the King in order to trade in Cross Creek—later Fayetteville—Cleveland and some volunteers marched to Cross Creek and corrected the situation. [51]

On 25 August 1775, he and Major Jesse Walton, members of the Surry County, NC Committee of Safety, "resolved that all those who would now subject all America or the Province to a Dependency on the Parliament of Great Britain are guilty of a very dangerous innovation injurious to the Crown and inconsistent with the Liberty of American Subjects; and that by the Law of Nature and the British Constitution no man can be legally taxed, or have his property taken from him without his consent, given by himself or his Representatives." The next day they were ordered to seize ammunition held by Tories.[52]

After the British incited Cherokee attacks in 1776, Cleveland was a scout on the NC frontier and participated in General Rutherford's Cherokee campaign.

In 1777, at Captain Cleveland's urging, Wilkes County was cut from Surry; upon organization, in March 1778, Cleveland became colonel of militia, head of the commission of justices, and was elected to the House of Commons.

Although NC was Whig in sentiment, above Cleveland on the Yadkin and on the VA-NC line most were Tories, and he had many scrapes. Cleveland used an oak on the North Wilkesboro courthouse square to hang Tories—once three bodies swung from its limbs. His riflemen were "Cleveland's Bull Dogs" and "Cleveland's Devils."

On 9 June 1779 the County Court of Pleas granted a 348-acre tract to Cleveland in a horseshoe bend on the north side of the Yadkin River and east of present Wilkesboro. "Great Roundabout" was 1,300 acres in 1820 when Major Hickerson bought it.[53] A Harrill wrote Lyman Draper from Brier Creek, Wilkes County, 6 November 1880 in behalf of 87-year-old Major Litle Hickerson, who had lived 50 years at Roundabout. His friend James Gwyn knew Ben.

Captured in Ashe County by Tories who demanded that he write passes for them before they killed him, Ben stalled until friends arrived and captured most of the Tories. Sizemore escaped but Cleveland later caught him in Wilkes Coumty near a field where Gwyn, then only a boy, was dropping corn behind a negro who was plowing. Ben borrowed the plow lines and hanged Sizemore with them, weeping as he declared he had to hang Sizemore. (Draper and Hickerson said Gwyn was thirteen and the victim was Zachariah Wells, a Tory desperado.) "Ben in his early days was very immoral and disipated as were all his brothers. Always at the races and seldom left without fighting. Wife Mary settled him somewhat. He hunted with Boone."

On 28 October 1783 Ben conveyed to John Cleveland, Sr., for 800 pounds, 200 acres north of Lewis Fork adjoining the boundary between Robert and John Cleveland and adjoining Thompson; witness was Larkin

[53]Wilkes County Deed Book A 1, p. 320.

Cleveland. That same day, for 100 pounds, Ben sold another 295 acres to John Cleveland, Sr.

Franklin County, GA was created in 1784; courts were established the next year with Benjamin Cleveland, John Gorham, Larkin Cleveland, Jesse Walton, Thomas Payne, Jesse Franklin et al justices of the peace.[54] Ben was assistant justice from 22 February 1785 to 6 Febraury 1786.

After the Revolution Cleveland lost Roundabout through a defective title and litigation with two Lewises, and about 1785 he moved to the junction of Tugaloo River and Chauga Creek in present Oconee County, SC, country he had seen when recovering horses from the Cherokee.

Ben's plantation was on the SC-GA line on Chauga Creek. In Pendleton District, SC, he bought 650 acres in March 1789, 1024 acres in December 1791, 327 acres on November 1793. On 19 July 1790 and for many years he was a judge. He had many slaves, kept a supply of good wine, and weighed 450 pounds. His September 1806 will was probated 26 October 1806.[55]

On 21 March 1786 he signed a report to the governor on the pursuit of Indians with Larkin, Jesse Walton, et al.

Ben's headright grant of 200 acres in Franklin County, GA was at a Tugaloo River crossing—the most important on the upper Savannah system—Hatton's Ford.

For heroism at King's Mountain a sword—now in the Shelby Public Library—was ordered for him in 1781 but not struck until 1939. His grave at his old home place at Madison, SC was marked by the DAR in 1887. His statue—the worst I have ever seen—stands on the performed. She found when she reached NC that he was a married man. What occurred after I know but little only that two daughters was the issue of that connection .... John Cleveland being in NC after the death of Montgomery married her and brought her to Tugaloo River in Franklin County, GA .... John was a wild, reckless man if all accounts be true. His wife became religiously inclined and proposed to join the Baptist Church, to which he sternly objected, and forbade her to do so; however, she joined, and when she came home John said to Caty, 'I suppose you have been Baptised.' She said, 'yes.' 'Well,' said John, ' by G-- you shall have enough of it.' He then carried her to the river a short distance and immersed her ninety nine times more."

"Devil John" Cleveland fought in the battles of Augusta, Ramsour's Mills and Camden in 1780 and in the Raft Swamp expedition in 1781. He commanded a company at Kings Mountain and was described as a "wild, reckless man" and "of good abilities." William T. On 14 August 1799 Humphrey Gibson, Jr. to John Cleveland, of Franklin County, for $700, 150 acres on the Tugaloo adjoining John Roberts.[63]

In a 30 April 1800 deed is a reference to "land surveyed for L. Marbury where John Cleveland and James Black now live."[64]

On 16 March 1805 Bedney Franklin and Catharine Cleveland, administrators of John Cleveland, deceased, conveyed to Pauler Ingles. John had given title bond for Tugaloo tract. Confirmed by Inferior Court July 1805, they conveyed 150 acres, part of Elijah Isaacs grant and adjoining John Roberts.[65]

In the 1805 Georgia land lottery, Ben, of Tugaloo, drew a blank, as did Little John and Larkin, drawing in the Creek Cession, Franklin County, but John Cleveland drew land, #501, Elbert County. Patsy, Eliza, Fauche, and Nancy, orphans of John Cleveland, drew a blank.

On 12 March 1822, in Jackson County, GA, Col. James Blair swore to the claim of John Cleveland's heirs for losses caused by Creek Indians, who in Franklin County, GA in 1783 and 1793 stole horses and a slave, who was killed later by an Indian settler named Walton. He made an affidavit in Franklin County, GA on 12 July 1788 before Jesse Watson that the Creek stole from him in July 1787 a bay mare, a sorrel mare, and four other horses. Earlier John Cleveland wrote to a Sullivan in the Helibees Town of the Creek Nation trying to get back a large bay horse that John Weatherford said Sullivan was holding for him. Apparently the heirs' claim was settled by payment of about $130 on 8 November 1826.[66] Children:

Argin d at daughter Ann's home in MS 29 July 1867 but was buried beside her husband at Clarkesville.

On 25 March 1807 Benjamin Cleveland conveyed to George Watkins, both of Franklin, for $1,800, 245 acres on Tugaloo and Toccoa, part of John Cleveland estate. [67]

On 29 July 1811, Catherine Cleveland to Benjamin Cleveland, both of Franklin, for $800, a Tugaloo tract, her share of 38 acres belonging to John Cleveland, deceased, on a dividing line between Catherine C. and James Smith in right of his wife Elizabeth (Cleveland) Smith, and on a dividing line between Catherine C. and Fauche Cleveland, being part of Benjamin Cleveland and Thomas Payne grant.[68]

On 20 November 1811 Benjamin Cleveland, of Franklin County, to John Slaton, of Pendleton District, SC, $1,600, 381 acres in Franklin, and James Smith, in right of his wife, Elizabeth, formerly Cleveland, and Fauche Cleveland, the distributive share of Catherine Cleveland from estate of John Cleveland. [69]

In Jackson County, GA he swore on 12 March 1822 that in 1788 the Creek stole several horses and a black slave from his father John Cleveland; the damages were $1150. Apparently the government paid something on this on 24 March 1835. Children:

CLEVELAND NOTES

1 ROGER CLEVELAND, the first Cleveland in VA, arrived before 16 November 1670. He m, in VA or England, Dorcas --. In Gloucester County, VA, he signed a deed in 1679. He moved to the part of Spottsylvania County that, in 1734, became Orange County. Minutes of the Council and General Court of Colonial Virginia, Vol. 58, p. 254, Virginia State Library, Richmond. Crozier, Spottsylvania County, VA Records, p. 17, Library of Congress, Washington.

(According to Edmund Janes Cleveland, The Genealogy of the Cleveland Families, Vol. 3, Hartford: 1899, p. 2054, Alexander Cleveland, b England, ca 1617, was the father of #13 Alexander and settled in Prince William County, VA; he married Lord Axminster's daughter. Cleveland, very vague about this, admitted that he had found no record of birth, death, marriage of the earlier Alexander Cleveland. (He was mainly interested in the Moses Cleaveland line.) George A. Martin in "Virginia Cleveland Ancestor Discovered," National Genealogical Society Quarterly, Vol. 46 (3), September 1958, p. 152, showed that Roger was the ancestor of the Southern Clevelands.)

Children (birth dates from Abingdon Parish Register, Gloucester County, VA, 1678-1761, pp. 8, 11, 19, 37, 40, 45, 54, Virginia State Library, Richmond):

11 JOHN CLEVELAND (Roger) was born prior to 1678 -- before the Abingdon Parish Register was begun.

12 ELIZABETH CLEVELAND (Roger) was baptised 31 October 1684. Abingdon Parish Register, Gloucester County, VA 1678-1761, p. 8.

13 ALEXANDER CLEVELAND (Roger), baptised 31 July 1687, Gloucester County, VA, d 1775. Abingdon Parish Register, p. 11, (Several Sons and Daughters of the Pilgrims members claim through him.) He m ca 1711 Mary, Mildred, or Milley Presley, b ca 1667, d at 103 a few days after Alexander's death at 111 on son John's Blue Run plantation. (She was a daughter of Elizabeth Thompson and Peter Presley, son of William Presley.)

Alexander Cleaveland, on 7 February 1733, witnessed a deed from William Hutcherson, of St. Georges Parish, Spotsylvania County, to Rice Curtis. Spotsylvania County, VA Deed Book B, 1729-1734.

On 20 May 1735 Rice Curtis, Sr, of Spotsylvania County, conveyed 600 acres on both sides of "Blew Run" on the Hanover County line to Thomas Chew, of Orange County, St. Mark's Parish, adjoining land of John Minor and Alexander Cleveland, part of a 1600-acre patent to Chew, sold to Curtis, and repurchased.

Alexander, of Spotsylvania County, bought 100 acres from Lawrence Franklin, of Orange County, on the same September 1738 day John Cleveland bought 100 acres from Rice Curtis on branches of "Blew Run" adjoining Alexander. Witness Grace Cleveland, Alexander's daughter, probably m Edward Coffey, the son of Edward and Ann Powell Coffey.

On 27 May 1743, Alexander Cleaveland having petitioned for a road, it was ordered that Alexander Cleaveland, Jr., John Cleaveland, Benjamin Franklin, Edward Coffee, and others, under Lawrence Frenklin, clear the road. (James Madison -- father of the future president -- became road overseer from Blue Run Mill Road to the main road below Colonel Chew on 22 March 1749.) Children:

131 ALEXANDER CLEVELAND, JR. (Alexander, Roger), baptised 25 May 1712, Gloucester County, VA, d 1776, Albemarle County, VA, m, ca 1730, Margaret Doolittle, b ca 1710, d ca 1785. Abingdon Parish Register, p. 37. L. C. Woolery, Life and Addresses of W. H. Woolery, LL. D., Cincinatti: The Standard Publishing Company, 1893, pp. 10-39.

On 28 June 1759 Alexander, Jr. and wife Margaret, planters, sold 100 acres on Blue Run to William Coursey, Jr., schoolmaster, part of Thomas Chew's 1600 acres sold to Rice Curtis, Sr., and by him sold to Cleveland, bounded by John Douglas, Blue Run, and Thomas Chew. When Coursey sold 100 acres 6 November 1760 the land was bounded by Chew, Douglas, Blue Run, and John "Cleaveland." Orange County, VA Deed Book 13. Children:

They settled on a Surry County, NC site chosen by the 17-year-old Jesse on a hill overlooking Fisher River about 1769. Their home near Lowgap, built in 1792, was acquired for restoration by the Surry County Historical Society in 1972.

Bernard, who may have founded the Mitchell River Baptist Church, named childen for Biblical figures.

Bernard m, second, in 1807, Susannah, widow of James Fletcher, of Wilkes County. W. R. Edmonds, in The University Magazine, March 1911, said the Clevelands and Franklins were Albemarle County, VA settlers.

Major John Redd, of Henry County, age 95, in Draper, Vol. 10, pp. 134-7, wrote, "Clasby and Smith who married two of Col Cleveland's sisters were men of little note. Franklin, who married the other, was a man of very fine standing in the county. I don't know what became of Clasby. Smith moved to Kentucky. Franklin moved to Surry County, NC, settled on Mitchell's River and lived there until his death. He raised a large family of children, some of whom became men of distinction. Jesse .... Meshac, a younger brother, was a member of Congress from the same state for several years. Abednego, the youngest, emigrated to Georgia and became a man of considerable distinction."

On 6 February 1764 Lawrence Franklyn, Sr. and wife, Mary (Payne), of Orange County, VA, conveyed to "Bernard Franklyn, Leather breeches maker of County of Albemarle" a 400 acre tract in Orange County patented by Franklyn, 100 of which was sold to Alexander Cleveland, Sr. and 100 to Benja. Franklyn, "and the other 200 now to Bernard Franklyn." John Cleaveland witness. Orange County, VA Deed Book 13, pp. 455-6.

Anticipating Tory attacks she "buried all the best bedclothes and table linens in a big box in the garden and then planted potatoes to disguise the fresh dirt. And (another family member) tucked all the family's gold and silver in a stocking, hid it under her apron and then sat calmly down to knit and make conversation while Tories raided the house. The box in the garden and the stocking full of treasure were all that was left of the family's property by the time the war was over." Winston-Salem Journal and Sentinel, October 1, 1972.

Bernard Franklin, of Orange County, signed a 1779 petition to the House of Delegates. On 8 November 1779 he entered 50 acres on Mitchell's River and another 10 acres the next day in Wilkes County, NC.

On 25 October 1792 Jeremiah and Mary Cleveland, of Albemarle County, VA, conveyed to Barnard Franklin, of Albemarle, for 125 pds, 550 acres in Franklin County, GA on Little -- Creek adjoining Beth'l Riggs, part of tract purchased by Jeremiah from Benjamin Cleveland, of SC. Witnesses: David Gillisby, John Cleveland,

Ephraim Musick. Sworn by John Cleveland in Franklin County, 22 November 1792. Franklin County Deed Book H, pp. 88-9. (Jeremiah Cleveland, tax collector, Franklin County, sold land 14 March 1791.) Bernard Franklin Bible Records of Lavonne Ketchum, Biggs, CA show that first child, named Jesse, d in infancy. Children:

In 1769 his uncle Ben Cleveland moved to the Wilkesboro area. In 1777, after finishing a year in the militia the 17-year-old Jesse was sent by his father to obtain land for him and he chose a tract bisected by Haystack Road on Mitchell's River in Surry County 20 miles from Ben Cleveland. He built cabins until he returned from the war. His father's family arrived -- four boys and two girls, none above 15.

The British in SC were coming northward, and the Torys were raiding, so the Whigs built a fort near Wilkesboro. L. W. Caruthers, Revolutionary Incidents ... in the Old North State, Philadelphia: 1854.

Adjutant to Ben Cleveland, Franklin fought at Kings Mountain and Guilford Courthouse on 15 March 1781.

Once, about to he hanged -- the rope was around his neck -- he said, "You all know my uncle Benjamin Cleveland, if you hang me he will pursue you like a blood hound and he will never stop the chase while there is a drop of warm blood running through your veins." The Tories let Jesse go. "This sercomstance (sic) of the Torys tying a rope around Franklin's neck was related to me by Franklin himself." John Redd, "Reminiscences of Westerm Virginia, 1770-1790," The Virginia Magazine of History and Biography, Vol. VII, pp. 128-9.

Moved to Wilkes County in 1784 and Surry in 1793. Congressman in 1795-6, he became US Senate president pro tempore and NC governor. His house at Lowgap, built about 1794 was to be purchased by the Surry County Historical Society in 1967 but the owner burned it instead. Winston-Salem Journal and Sentinel, 1 October 1972. 13218 MESHACK FRANKLIN (Mary, John, Alexander, Roger), b 17 September 1773, d 18 December 1839, Surry County, m Mildred Edwards, of VA, the daughter of Gideon Edwards and -- Perkins, whose brother Thomas Perkins named his plantation Mount Airy, the namesake of the present Stokes County seat. He served 8 years in Congress during the 1812 era. Thomas Hickerson, Echoes of Happy Valley, Chapel Hill, NC: 1962. Mount Airy News, September 1988.

The Edwards-Franklin house has been restored and the brochure from the Surry County Historical Society at Mount Airy, NC reads as follows:

"Gideon Edwards built his house on a knoll of bedrock facing South, protected by Skull Camp Mountain against northern winter winds. The date, 1799, on the chimney probably marks the completion of the house.

"A member of a prominent Virginia family, Edwards had come to NC seeking land and opportunity. His new plantation of 2,330 acres along both sides of Fisher River was farmed by fifty slaves. Well respected in the community, he represented Surry County at the state convention to ratify the Federal Constitution in 1789 and served fifteen terms in the state legislature. He and his wife, Nancy E. Perkins, raised two sons and a daughter in the house.

"Mildred, the only child to survive her father, married Meshack Franklin in 1802. They moved into her childhood home after Gideon Edwards' death in 1810. Ownership of the house passed to them when Mildred's mother died in 1820.

"A well-educated farmer, Meshack Franklin founded the Surry County Agricultural Society and practiced advanced farming methods, including crop rotation and contour plowing. His commercial crop, tobacco, was worked by forty to sixty slaves. A corn mill built on the property was used into the twentieth century and still stands today. Like Mildred's father, Meshack was prominent in Surry County politics, service first in the General Assembly tnen in the United States Congress from 1807 to 1815. His brother, Jesse Franklin, served two terms in the United States Senate and North Carolina's twentieth governor.

"In 1823 the Franklins remodeled the house, adding the front porch and redecorating in the elegant style of Washington houses Mechack had visited while serving in Congress. He replaced the stairs with a handsome Federal staircase, put new mantels in the first floor rooms, and repainted the gold colored exterior in chalk white and the interior in softer, more subtle colors.

"Jesse, one of Mechack's ten children, sold the house, mill and 1,300 acres in 1847 to Sinclair McMickle, who farmed the land and maintained the buildings well. The house was inherited by a son, Christopher Columbus McMickle, and his wife Roseltha P. Kapp. The yuonger McMickle was a justice of the peace and tax assessor. In 1871 a post office for Edwardsville was located at the house. The Mc Mickles lived in the house until their deaths in 1914.

"Their daughter Laura married James Blevins, but died in 1935 with no surviving children. In 1937 James married Elsie Lou McCann of Alleghany County, After his death, Elsie remained in the house until 1969 when she moved to her son Samuel's home, a few miles south. The house was vacant until it was acquired by the Surry County Historical Society."

1322 BENJAMIN CLEVELAND (John, Alexander, Roger), namesake of Cleveland counties, NC and TN, was b 26 May 1738, on Blue Run, Orange County, VA, d 15 October 1806, Pendleton District, SC, m 1759 Mary Graves, b Orange County, d 1800, Pendleton District. With father-in-law Joseph Graves, Bernard Franklin, and John Taliaferro, he moved about 1769 from Orange County to Roaring River, a tributary of Yadkin River in Rowan, present Wilkes, County, NC. He farmed, raised stock and hunted.

Daniel Boone told Cleveland about KY and ca 1772 he, Jesse Bond, Jesse Walton, Edward Rice, and William Hightower set out for KY. At the Cumberland Gap they were robbed of guns and horses by the Cherokee. Months later Cleveland recovered his property from Cherokee chief Big Bear.

The will of Joseph Graves, 12 July 1774, named wife Sarah and minor children of his daughter Mary Cleveland -- Absolam and John. Executors were Mary Graves Cleveland and Jesse Walton. Surry County, NC Will Abstract, Vol. 1, p. 25.

In 1775 some neighbors were forced to pledge allegiance to the King in order to trade in Cross Creek, later Fayetteville. Cleveland and some volunteers marched to Cross Creek and corrected the situation. Thomas Felix Hickerson, Happy Valley, Chapel Hill, NC.

On 25 August 1775 he and Major Jesse Walton, members of the Surry County, NC Committee of Safety, "resolved that all those who would now subject all America or the Province to a Dependency on the Parliament of Great Britain are guilty of a very dangerous innovation injurious to the Crown and inconsistent with the Liberty of American Subjects; and that by the Law of Nature and the British Constitution no man can be legally taxed, or have his property taken from him without his consent, given by himself or his Representatives." The next day they were ordered to seize ammunition held by Tories. The East Tennessee Historical Society's Publications, Vol. 2, 1930.

After the British incited Cherokee attacks in 1776, Cleveland was a scout on the NC frontier and participated in General Rutherford's Cherokee campaign.

In 1777, at Captain Cleveland's urging, Wilkes County was cut from Surry; upon organization, in March 1778, Cleveland became colonel of militia, head of the commission of justices, and was elected to the House of Commons.

Although NC was Whig in sentiment, above Cleveland on the Yadkin and on the VA-NC line most were Tories, and he had many scrapes. Cleveland used an oak on the North Wilkesboro courthouse square to hang Tories -- once three bodies swung from the limbs. His riflemen were "Cleveland's Bull Dogs" and "Cleveland's Devils."

On 9 June 1779 the County Court of Pleas granted tract of 348 acres to Cleveland in a horseshoe bend on the north side of the Yadkin River and east of present Wilkesboro; "Great Roundabout" was 1,300 acres in 1820 when Major Hickerson bought it. Wilkes County Deed Book A 1, p. 320. A Harrill wrote Draper from Brier Creek, Wilkes County, 6 November 1880 for 87-year-old Major Litle Hickerson, who had lived 50 years at Roundabout. His friend James Gwyn knew Ben.

Captured in Ashe County by Tories who demanded that Ben write passes for them before they killed him, he stalled until friends arrived and captured most of the Tories. Sizemore escaped but Cleveland later caught him in Wilkes Coumty near a field where Gwyn, then only a boy, was dropping corn behind a negro who was plowing. Ben borrowed the plow lines and hanged Sizemore with them, weeping as he declared he had to hang Sizemore. (Draper and Hickerson said Gwyn was thirteen and the victim was Zachariah Wells, a Tory desperado.) "Ben in his early days was very immoral and disipated as were all his brothers. Always at the races and seldom left without fighting. Wife Mary settled him somewhat. He hunted wih Boone."

On 28 October 1783 Ben conveyed to John Cleveland, Sr., for 800 pounds, 200 acres north of Lewis Fork adjoining the boundary between Robert and John Cleveland and adjoining Thompson; witness was Larkin Cleveland. That same day, for 100 pounds, Ben sold another 295 acres to John Cleveland, Sr.

After the Revolution Cleveland lost Roundabout through a defective title in litigation with two Lewises, and about 1785 he moved to the junction of Tugaloo River and Chauga Creek in present Oconee County, SC, country he had seen when recovering his horses from the Cherokee.

Ben's plantation was on the SC-GA line on Chauga Creek. In Pendleton District, SC, he bought 650 acres in March 1789, 1024 acres in December 1791, 327 acres on November 1793. On 19 July 1790 and for many years he was a judge. He had many slaves, kept a supply of good wine, and weighed 450 pounds. His September 1806 will was probated 26 October 1806. Pendleton District, SC Will Book A, pp. 76-8.

For heroism at King's Mountain a sword (now in the Shelby Public Library) was ordered for him in 1781 but not struck until 1939. His grave on his old home place at Madison, SC was marked by the DAR in 1887. His statue -- the worst I have ever seen -- stands on the courthouse square at North Wilkesboro, NC not far from his hanging tree. Lee B. 13222 JOHN CLEVELAND (Benjamin, John, Alexander, Roger) b ca 1760, Orange County, VA, d before September 1806, Franklin County, GA, m 9 June 1781, Wilkes County, NC, Catharine Sloan, b County Antrim, Ireland, 1741, d at 100 on 31 July 1841, Macon, GA, who m, first, -- Moore, second, Hugh Montgomery, of NC. (Her daughter, Rachel Montgomery, m Montfort Stokes, governor of NC, 1830-2, and daughter Catherine Montgomery m General James Welborn.) Her grand nephew William Hackett wrote Draper on 12 September 1880 that "when quite young (she) started on a voyage to join her friend in Salisbury , NC; on the voyage became acquainted with Col. Montgomery of Wilkes Cty, NC (who) passed himself as a young man, gained her affections, and probably had a mock ceremony performed. She found when she reached NC that he was a married man. What occurred after I know but little only that two daughters was the issue of that connection .... John Cleveland being in NC after the death of Montgomery married her and brought her to Tugaloo River in Franklin County, GA .... John was a wild, reckless man if all accounts be true. His wife became religiously inclined and proposed to join the Baptist Church, to which he sternly objected, and forbade her to do so; however, she joined, and when she came home John said to Caty, 'I suppose you have been Baptised.' She said, 'yes.' 'Well,' said John, ' by G-- you shall have enough of it.' He then carried her to the river a short distance and immersed her ninety nine times more."

"Devil John" Cleveland fought in the battles of Augusta, Ramsour's Mills and Camden in 1780 and in the Raft Swamp expedition in 1781. He commanded a company at Kings Mountain and was described as a "wild, reckless man" and "of good abilities." William T. Hackett wrote Lyman Draper that "in a fight with a man named Bond he fell upon a stump and broke his back of which he died."

On 19 February 1790 Benjamin Cleveland, of Pendleton County, SC, conveyed 770 acres in Franklin County for 100 pds. to John Cleveland adjoining Leonard Marbury and Jesse Walton. Witnesses William Cleveland, and Larkin Cleveland J. P. Franklin County Deed Book H, p. 29.

On 7 September 1791 Thomas Bush and wife Elizabeth, of Wilkes County, GA, conveyed to John Cleveland, of Franklin County, for 250 pds., 3 tracts in Franklin County, on Tugaloo River 750 acres, on Toccoa Creek known as Owl Swamp adjoining Colonel Benjamin Cleveland. Franklin County, GA Deed Book H, p. 18.

On 14 August 1799 Humphrey Gibson, Jr. to John Cleveland, of Franklin County, for $700, 150 acres on Tugaloo adjoining John Roberts. Franklin County Deed Book NN, p. 97-8.

In 30 April 1800 deed is reference to "land surveyed for L. Marbury where John Cleveland and James Black now live." Franklin County Deed Book NN, pp. 7-9.

On 16 March 1805 Bedney Franklin and Catharine Cleveland, administrators of John Cleveland, deceased, conveyed to Pauler Ingles. John had given title bond for Tugaloo tract. Confirmed by Inferior Court July 1805, they conveyed 150 acres, part of Elijah Isaacs grant and adjoining John Roberts. Franklin County Deed Book PP, pp. 15-6.

In the 1805 Georgia land lottery. Ben, of Tugaloo, drew a blank, as did Little John and Larkin, drawing in the Creek Cession, Franklin County, but John Cleveland drew land, #501, Elbert County. Patsy, Eliza, Fauche, and Nancy, orphans of John Cleveland, drew a blank.

On 12 March 1822 in Jackson County, GA Col. James Blair swore to the claim of the heirs of John Cleveland for losses caused by Creek Indians, who in Franklin County, GA in 1783 and 1793 stole horses and a slave, who was killed later by an Indian settler named Walton. He made an affidavit in Franklin County, GA on 12 July 1788 before Jesse Watson that the Creek stole from him in July 1787 a bay mare, a sorrel mare, and four other horses. Earlier John Cleveland wrote to a Sullivan in the Hellbees Town of the Creek Nation trying to get back a large bay horse that John Weatherford said Sullivan was holding for him. Apparently the claim of the heirs was settled by payment of about $130 on 8 November 1826. Thaxton, Donna, Georgia Indian Depredation Claims, Americus, GA: 1988. Children:

On 29 July 1811, Catherine Cleveland to Benjamin Cleveland, both of Franklin, for $800, a Tugaloo tract, her share of 38 acres belonging to John Cleveland, deceased, on a dividing line between Catherine C. and James Smith in right of his wife Elizabeth (Cleveland) Smith, and on a dividing line between Catherine C. and Fauche Cleveland, being part of Benjamin Cleveland and Thomas Payne grant. Acker, Deeds of Franklin County, GA, 1976. Franklin County Deed Book HH, p. 153.

On 20 November 1811 Benjamin Cleveland, of Franklin County, to John Slaton, of Pendleton District, SC, $1,600, 381 acres in Franklin, and

James Smith, in right of his wife, Elizabeth, formerly Cleveland, and Fauche Cleveland, the distributive share of Catherine Cleveland from estate of John Cleveland. Franklin County Deed Book TT, p. 76.

In Jackson County, GA he swore on 12 March 1822 that in 1788 the Creek stole several horses from his father John Cleveland and also stole a negro man and John's damages were $1150 and he was never compensated. Apparently the government paid something on this on 24 March 1835. Children:

Accounts for sundries furnished militia of NC, VA, and SC allowed in January 1782 by auditors of Salisbury District, #40 included: John Cleveland for service as chaplain, Voucher #721 and payment to Larkin for two horses and for his service.

"There is a well-grounded tradition that (George) McNeill and Cleveland, though unofficial chaplains, were at the foot of Kings Mountain praying while their loyal fellow patriots defeated the British Red Coats on the mountain October 30, 1780 in the famous battle that was the turning point in the Revolution." James Seaborn, of Fair Play, Oconee County, SC, on 20 October 1873 wrote to Lyman Draper: "Preacher John Cleveland who also came from Virginia was a brother of Col. Ben from whose grandson I take these notes. He lived on the Tugaloo River about 6 miles below the Col. He was a noted preacher in this county of the Baptist persuasion, was a man of straightforward, steady character....He was in charge of Chauga Church and some others for many years. He was a soldier in the Revolutionary War. He died in Georgia on Shoal Creek in Franklin (now Hall) County in about the year 1813 but was brought back to his former residence in South Carolina and buried. His age is not known. Rev. John Cleveland was the smallest of the 4 brothers; rather short in stature and never weighed over 165. He had nine children, 6 boys and 3 girls, viz, Wm, John, Jr., Neil, Larkin, Jerry, Ben, Fanny, Betsy, and Polly. They are all dead but their descendants are living in this country along the river on the S. C. and Ga. sides. John Jr. and Jerry have children living here, viz, Rueben, son of John, Jr. and grandson of Rev. John, now 90 years old, and Osborne, son of Jerry and grandson of Rev. John, now 70 years old. Jerry died in this county in 1827. John Jr. removed to Mobile, Alabama where he died in 1846." This comes from a memorial delivered 7 June 1905 at the grave of Reverend George McNeil. Journal of Wilkes County Genealogical Society, Summer 1976, p. 5. (On the cover is a photo of Benjamin Cleveland's statue.) The oldest written account is undated and signed by Joseph McNeil (1767-185?), George McNeil's son:

"The Rev Mr. George McNeil was bornd on or about the year 1720 and ordained before 1776....he and the Reverend Mr. John Cleveland went in the Revolutionary War with the Army as they went to Kings Mountain and preached to them until they got up into Burke County...."

When John arrived on the Tugaloo, Ben and Larkin gave him some land. John lived 6 miles below Ben in the fork of Tugaloo and Chauga in Oconee County, SC. 5 DD 6.6 "Only the descendants of Preacher John Cleveland are now living in this county. A few grandchildren and many great and great great grandchildren. None of the descendants of the other three brothers are living here.... A good many of the descendants of Rev John C. are living in Texas, Georgia and other Southern states." 5 DD 56, Draper Collection.

A voter for delegates to 1795 constitutional convention, he and Obadiah Hooper had legal ads in the Augusta Chronicle and Gazette and Southern Sentinel and Universal Gazette, 1795.

On 28 July 1796 John Cleveland witnessed deed before Ob. Hooper, J. P. Franklin County Deed Book 1, pp. 14-5.

Oconee County churches were connected with Shoal Creek Church, of Franklin County, GA, "not far across the Tugaloo from Chauga" where in January 1796 Rev. John Cleveland was pastor and Charles Bond was clerk. Cleveland also pastored at Coneross church, an arm of Shoal Creek Church, also as of April 23, 1796 the Chocy and Cone Ross churches. The church was a member of the Charleston Baptist Association. The committee to organize Coneross or "Cobbs and Kilpatrick Meeting House" as a separate church were Thomas Gilbert, John Doss, and Rev. John Cleveland.

In 1796 "Brother Cleveland was instructed by Sarepta Baptist Association, GA to preach every third Sunday at "Chogy" Church. Chauga Church was organized as an arm of Shoal Creek Baptist, Hart County, GA with the following assisting in the rites: Revs. John Cleveland, Dozier Thornton, Francis Calloway, Sr., Thomas Gilbert, and John Carter. Rev. Cleveland was the first pastor."

In 1808 a log structure was erected a short distance below where Highway 123 crosses Chauga River and just above the confluence of Chauga and Tugaloo rivers. Rain-swollen waters of Chauga later destroyed this building. The next building, another log structure, was located left of Highway 123, about 5 miles west of Westminster, standing about directly opposite the present day building. Members in 1813 included Elijah Land and wife Eleanor, James Yowell and Mary, Joshua Yowell and wife Sallie Cleveland Yowell, and Obedience Cleveland. Joel King, History of South Carolina Baptists. Goode, History of Tugaloo Baptist Association. B. W. Roach, Oconee County, SC Cemetery Survey, Vol. 2, Pendleton County, SC.

In 1797 Shoal Creek and its arms had 209 members, most in SC. The regular pastor was John Cleveland. The church entered the Sarepta Association in 1796. Delegates from then until 1804: James Blair, Francis Callaway, John Carter, John Cleveland, John Doss, William Gates, Thomas Gilbert, and Charles S. Morton. Membership in 1800 was 212. Church moved to SC in January 1811 because most of the members were there and changed the name to Chauga. Church was located about halfway between Westminster and Chauga Creek. Leah Townsend, South Carolina Baptists, 1670-1805, Baltimore: 1974, pp. 231-5.

"John Cleveland preached in 1789 at the Georgia Association meeting, but in 1790 he was living in Pendleton District with two slaves; in 1792 he was pastor of Tugaloo River Church of Franklin County, Ga; in 1794 a survey was made for him on north side of Tugaloo River in SC; his ministry covered a large part of Pendleton District and neighboring parts of Ga, he being particularly active as the pastor of Shoal Creek Church and all its SC branches, besides assisting presbyteries throughout the surrounding territory and being an active member of the association; about 1818 he fell into error and it is not known when he died. ... Thomas Gilbert had a survey of 100 acres on Tugaloo River in 1787... Thomas Gilbert was in Spartanburg County without slaves in 1790 ...." Thomas Gilbert was a member of that church until 1805, at least. Other members were William and Larkin Cleveland and Nancy and Polly Hooper.

One Stephenson wrote Draper, in May 1873, that John d in 1820 and he founded Chauga Church about 1788. (Ben is buried there.) John sold out about 1814 and moved to Broad River, Franklin County, Ga.
